RALPH McGILL

Symbol of the Checked Hat—

From notes made in London:

There is a London banker of prominence. A few weeks ago he began appearing in public hatless. Before he had been a picture of sartorial elegance. This sudden change gave concern to his associates and friends.

"Don't you think," they asked, "your position demands you wear a hat?"

"It does not," he replied sharply. "It costs at least sixpence to check a hat. A sixpence is all taxes allow me to keep out of each pound I earn. Therefore, I cannot afford to be paying a pound per day to check a hat."

The British pay more taxes than do Americans. But the dislike for them is just as strong. The only difference seems to be they have more political maturity. They do not quite so vehemently demand that great cuts in taxes be made at the same time the government spends more on social security and national defense.

British trade is strong again, though thwarted here and there by tariffs. Nothing irritates the average Englishman more than for Americans to suggest that his trade balance is not all it should be because he, the Englishman, is an inefficient fellow.

"Just lower your tariffs and we will bloody well show you who is efficient!" is his reply.

Diverse Fields

He points out that at the urging of Americans, who at war's end prescribed more trade and less aid, the British began, for example, to do rather well in such diverse fields as bicycles, electric generators and woolen fabrics.

"We were so efficient," said the British economist with whom I talked, "that rather soon you closed the door to our bikes. Then, even though we offered the lowest bids on some large orders for major generator installations, you refused our efficiency and gave the orders to your home companies to avoid the political repercussions. That is something to consider. But don't go on calling us inefficient.

"Now," he concluded, "you have cut off our woolen trade because we were so efficient in producing a fine fabric and selling it in America that it was out-selling your own."

There is no escaping the British efficiency. Here is an island nation which has no raw materials whatever, save an inadequate supply of coal. She must buy all she uses, bring them in by ship, manufacture them, and ship them to the competitive markets of the world.

This she does with great efficiency. The average U.S. citizen, who sees a scarcity of British foods, almost never considers the tariff, which is the modern dragon badly in need of another St. George, insofar as the British are concerned.

Another Factor

There is another factor. The dominions, as the industrial age progresses, are building up their own manufacturing output. They do not need to buy as much as they did but a few years ago. The net result is that despite the American tariffs, which are raised when any British item begins to move well, the United States is Britain's greatest single market, having recently displaced Australia.

What disturbs Britain most, however, is that her percentage part in the over-all world increase in trade has lagged behind what it should be. She presently is moving to improve this by becoming a world leader in production of electronic goods. She also is selling atomic reactors with some success. But Germany again looms as a really formidable competitor and Japan is beginning to make herself felt.

All this explains why the British turn to trade with Red China. It is a practical matter. She must trade to live. And if trade with the United States is to be cut off when any piece of it attains a successful market, then she must turn to other fields.

Anyhow, don't chide the British about being inefficient.

Policeman Gets Life In Slaying

A DeKalb County Superior Court jury Tuesday night found a former DeKalb policeman guilty of murder in the shooting of his sweetheart but recommended mercy.

The defendant, Leslie Eugene Johnson, 29, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge H. O. Hubert Jr. The prosecution had asked the death penalty for the June 6 pistol slaying of Miss Mary Helen Lee, 27, at her home at 309 Adams St., Decatur.

MERCY PLEA

Johnson took the witness stand in his own behalf Tuesday and asked the jury for mercy. In an almost inaudible voice he told the jury he "couldn't explain" why he killed his girl friend.

The jury, charged by Judge Hubert at 2:45, took more than five and a half hours to reach a decision.

Johnson is also charged with assault with intent to murder Miss Lee's mother, Mrs. Mary Faver. He had admitted both shootings in a statement signed June 6 after being placed in DeKalb jail.

ARGUMENT

In the statement, read in court by Solicitor Richard Bell, Johnson said he and Miss Lee got into an argument the morning of the shooting and he went out to his car and got his service pistol, a .38-caliber revolver, stopping to smoke a cigaret.

Returning to the house, he shot his sweetheart three times, his statement continues, and then shot her mother as Mrs. Faver sought to prevent him from leaving.

U.S. Must Tie In Proof Of Lottery, Judge Says

By GENE BRITTON

A federal judge Tuesday advised the government its conspiracy case against Horace Ingram and his 25 co-defendants will be jeopardized unless it can tie all the alleged overt acts into what would amount to one big conspiracy.

A legal skirmish between the government and the defense developed as the trial neared the end of its first full day. The argument blossomed when defense attorney Wesley Asinof objected to a witness' reference to a surveillance of Mary Parks Law, one of the defendants, in 1955.

Federal intelligence agent William A. Morris had been testifying about the March 27 raid on Ingram's Howell Mill road garage, which the government charges was a headquarters for the lottery racket.

PROBE BEGUN IN 1955

The government's prosecutor, E. Ralph Ivey, assistant district attorney, asked Morris when he had begun investigating the case. Morris said he started in September, 1955, when he and other agents made a surveillance of Mrs. Law.

When the agent began testifying about the 1955 activities, Asinof objected on the grounds the government was "trying to split the alleged conspiracy."

U. S. District Judge Boyd Sloan overruled the objection but warned Ivey that "it would be better to start from a central core in the case and work outwards, keeping all the activities connected."

He said the government must prove a tie-in between the separate illegal actions of the defendants to the main conspiracy charged. Otherwise, he continued, there would be unconnected, prejudicial testimony on the record against the defendants, and the government's case would be jeopardized.

FIRST WITNESS

Ivey told the court the government intends to prove the connection.

Morris, the first witness for the government, took the stand late Monday and indications were that it would be noon Wednesday be-

Jody Home, Says She'll Wed in '58

By DON BAIRD

Jody came home Thursday night and announced plans for marriage in the fall of next year.

"I'm so happy to be back—and I really mean it," Jody Shattuck exclaimed upon arrival in Atlanta by plane from New York. "I'm looking forward to a very busy year."

She said she and Herb Sodel, whom she met while she was living in Connecticut, plan to wed "some time" in September 1958. The marriage to Sodel, who enrolled at the University of Georgia to be near Jody, will follow her year's reign as "Miss Georgia."

Wednesday has been proclaimed "Jody Shattuck Day" by Gov. Griffin in honor of the girl who brought the first-runner-up title in the Miss America Pageant to Georgia. Early Wednesday the statuesque blonde will fly to Columbus, where she will be guest of the Columbus Jaycees, her sponsors, and she will spend Thursday "in the sun" at Callaway Gardens, near Chipley.

Bill Griffin Wins East Point Seat

W. B. (Bill) Griffin Tuesday was elected to an unexpired term as East Point city councilman from the First Ward in a special runoff.

W. B. Griffin

Griffin, a barber, defeated, by a vote of 862 to 552, William A. Huff, who had served as interim councilman since July 1, when A. L. Stanfield resigned to become city recorder. The term runs through December, 1958.

U.S. Summons Faubus; Nashville Dynamiters Raze Integrated School

Police Seize Kasper and Warn Him

By RUSSELL DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 10 (UP)—Dynamite terrorists brought a shattering end to integration at one Nashville school today and roving segregationist John Kasper was arrested later for "disorderly and offensive" conduct.

Kasper, gaunt 27-year-old segregation soldier-of-fortune, had shouted balefully in speeches that "the shotgun, dynamite and the rope" would be brought into play here if integration began.

HARANGUED CROWD

He harangued a crowd of 500 in downtown Nashville last night a few hours before a dynamite bomb wrecked the Hattie Cotton School, which was integrated with the enrollment of a lone Negro yesterday.

Fearful mothers kept hundreds of children away from six other integrated schools today and angered police began a mass round-up of rowdies.

A bomb scare disrupted classes at an integration-troubled high school in Birmingham, Ala., forcing evacuation of 1,800 students. But a 40-minute search by police turned up no trace of explosives. Gov. Folsom said he would call out the National Guard only as a last resort.

NO MORE NOW

A Negro integration leader said late today there would be no further attempts made to enroll children of his race in Birmingham's segregated schools "at this time."

The Rev. C. F. Shuttlesworth announced the decision to delay integration efforts after receipt of a letter from city schools Supt. L. Frazer Banks, the contents of which he did not disclose.

In addition to Kasper, the 27 persons arrested in the seething Tennessee capital included three men found sitting in an automobile near a school not far from the one blown up shortly after midnight. Their car was plastered with Ku Klux Klan stickers and

SMILING GOV. FAUBUS GREETS U.S. MARSHAL

Accepts Summons from R. Beal Kidd, Right, at Mansion

Must Reply To Charges In 10 Days

By ROBERT E. FORD

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 10 (AP)—Armed National Guardsmen pulled back from gates of the governor's mansion today long enough for Gov. Orval Faubus to be summoned to court 10 days from now and answer charges he is obstructing racial integration.

The governor, appearing solemn, walked down the steps of the mansion to take the court order from thin, gray-haired, affable R. Beal Kidd, a U. S. marshal.

DRAMATIC MEETING

This dramatic meeting ended earlier questions as to whether the National Guard would permit a marshal into the mansion grounds to serve a summons.

As late as yesterday, the governor said he did not know whether he would accept service, but the Justice Department in Washington today said arrangements for him to accept the document were made with his attorney

The court petition and order were the first concrete acts by federal authorities seeking to break the battle of wills in the nation's most serious challenge of federal powers.

BROWNELL PETITION

U. S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies issued the order on petition of Atty. Gen. Brownell. Judge Davies last night directed federal attorneys to write the petition.

As the government acted, segregationist crowds, some singing "Dixie," rallying song of the old South, surged around two Little Rock area high schools. An effigy of a Negro was hung at one. At the other the crowd raced for a Negro reporter, whom the National Guard escorted to safety.

Also named in Davies' order were Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, adjutant general of the Arkansas National Guard, and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson, commander of a Guard unit at Little Rock Central High School.

FAUBUS DIRECTION

At Faubus' direction the Guard has barred Negroes from enrolling in the school.

No temporary restraining order was issued, or asked, an unusual procedure in such cases. Judge Davies told Faubus and his subordinates to appear in court Sept.

Gromyko Says Turks Are Massed Near Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Soviet government accused Turkey tonight of massing troops along Syria's frontier as a tool of the United States.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko leveled the charge at a Moscow news conference. He warned that Syria has friends.

The Soviet Union cannot remain aloof "when Western imperialists wave torches of war along our frontiers," he said.

He added that Turkey by an unwise military action might plunge "over the precipice."

There was a calm reaction in Turkey, the scene of consultations recently among the Turks, anti-Communist Arab leaders and U. S

Authoritative sources in Ankara said the Turkish army usually holds frontier maneuvers at this time of year and some units may be engaged in routine exercises near the Syrian border, but these have nothing to do with the Syrian crisis.

A more abrupt response came from a Turkish source to a charge by the Soviet army newspaper Red Star that U. S. military units have landed in Turkey to support anti-Syrian moves.

"This," the Turk said, "is completely and purely imaginary."

In Damascus, leftist newspapers demanded general mobilization and martial law. Premier Sabri Assali's Cabinet met in urgent session to discuss what it calls anti-Syrian provocations by the United States. But it took no immediate action.

Veterans of Middle East affairs consider the frontier between Syria and Israel is the pressure spot to watch in the current crisis.

Dredge With 47 Rammed By Freighter and Sinks

COOS BAY, Ore, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Norwegian freighter Thorshall smashed broadside into a dredge at the mouth of Coos Bay on the southern Oregon coast this evening, the Coast Guard reported.

The dredge quickly sank. Survivors were reported clinging to the mast and superstructure, which still were above water. The dredge carried a crew of 47.

Eight foot waves were running in the channel.

At least two men were dead and their bodies brought to shore. They were members of the dredge crew. There were unconfirmed reports others were trapped in the engine room of the dredge. There apparently were no casualties aboard the freighter.

The Thorshall was outbound. The dredge, the Rossell, operated by the Corps of Engineers, apparently was working at the mouth of the harbor.

The sunken barge blocked the channel, the Coast Guard reported. The Thorshall was reported returning to port here, some nine miles inland from the scene of the crash.

Witnesses said the dredge launched three lifeboats. One swamped almost immediately.

U.S. Probes Louisiana Suppliers Of Sugar to Georgia Moonshiners

Huge sugar shipments from New Orleans, La., refineries to moonshiners in Georgia and six other Southeastern states are under an intensive federal investigation, it was learned here Tuesday.

S. O. McPherson, Atlanta regional enforcement chief of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit, said arrests will be made soon.

Since the government began its crackdown on sugar sales by wholesalers and retailers last April, manufacturers of illegal liquor have relied more heavily on purchases at the refineries.

McPherson said that New Orleans refineries are "cooperating 100 per cent" with the government in its campaign to cut off sugar supplies for moonshiners. He pointed out that 80 per cent of the nation's cane sugar refineries are in the New Orleans trade area.

By JACK NELSON

"This investigation will deal a staggering blow to the big moonshine operators," McPherson said, "because they are the ones who can afford to send tractor-trailers to the refineries and purchase shipments of 25,000 and 30,000 pounds."

In Washington, the Internal Revenue Service said the crackdown on sugar sales "hit the moonshiners where it hurts."

"We've got 'em scrambling all over looking for sugar. If they can't find sugar, they use whatever substitutes they can get their hands on," he said.

The Washington official said, "We've found stills in Georgia where they were using cane syrup. A moonshiner in New Jersey was using sugar syrup. Some are even using maple syrup."

The Atlanta region, which also includes Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, accounts for about 90 per cent of the nation's moonshine output, McPherson said.

The Dallas, Tex., regional office, which has responsibility for Louisiana, is cooperating in the investigation of sales at refineries.

McPherson said Atlanta and Dal-

Dulles Doubts Syria Will Set Off a War

U.S. Troops Won't Be Called To Mideast, Secretary Says

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles expressed confidence today that the Syrian situation would be settled without war in the Middle East.

He also told a news conference it is unlikely American military forces would be called upon to intervene on behalf of any Mideast country fighting off a Communist attack.

If fighting does break out, he said, the countries involved could deal with it without assistance by American military forces.

SEEKS TO CALM

Dulles spoke in an obvious effort to calm tensions set loose by the Syrian government's pro-Soviet moves of the past few weeks.

His calm words, however, contrasted sharply with alarmed comment made off the record by top Eisenhower administration leaders since Communists gained added influence within the Syrian army and government.

In talking with reporters today, Dulles even refused to describe the sudden airlift of American weapons to Jordan as emergency shipments. He took the view that these shipments were programmed some time ago and that only the delivery had been stepped up.

BASED ON FAITH

"I can't tell what is going to happen there (in Syria)," he said. "The result depends upon a lot of factors and some of them are entirely beyond the control of the United States.

"Now I believe that the situation probably will work out. But . . . this is partly a belief based upon faith."

The secretary acknowledged that serious trouble might erupt in the Middle East and cautioned: "Certainly we do not believe, there or anywhere else, in peace at any price."

Dulles' optimistic view surprised many foreign diplomats as well as some of his top aides. Diplomats who have talked to him privately about Syria expressed the opinion his changed tone was mainly a diplomatic maneuver aimed at avoiding any automatic commitment that American troops would fight in the Middle East.

PLAYING IT DOWN

Some other American authorities said Dulles seemed to be deliberately playing down the serious Syrian situation because of a feeling the developments have been over-dramatized, thus driving the Syrians more deeply into Moscow's embrace.

Dulles shrugged off Soviet denunciations of American moves in airlifting defense weapons to Jordan and stepping up sea shipment airlifting defense weapons to Jordan and stepping up sea shipme of arms to other pro-Western Mideast countries. Pravda and other Russian publications contend these shipments show the United States and its agents are plotting to attack Syria.

"Those charges seem to me to be very typical of a mentality which attributes to others techniques which it is in the habit of indulging in itself," Dulles said.

Reds Udderly Upset As 13 Desert to West

DAMNATZ, Germany, Sept. 10 (AP)—A herd of 13 cows was the center of an East-West controversy today after the animals swam from Communist East Germany to greener pastures in the West.

The cows crossed Saxony village and were taken in tether by West German farmers as "illegal border crossers."

Lodge Rips Kadar for 'Betrayal'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge appealed to the United Nations today to keep alive the issue of Hungary's freedom. He declared this provides the only hope for reversing "the present grim course of events in that country."

In a 52-minute speech at the opening of the General Assembly meeting, Lodge lashed out at the Soviet Union for using military force to crush the Hungarian revolution. He accused the regime of Premier Janos Kadar of having a record of "promise and betrayal" in dealing with the Hungarian people.

36-MEMBER STAND

Lodge urged the 81-nation Assembly to approve a resolution sponsored by 36 of its members which nominates Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand as a special representative to pursue U.N. objectives on Hungary.

These include withdrawal of Soviet military forces and restoration of democratic processes to the Hungarian people.

TOP TRAGEDY

Hungary made the move after Keith C. O. Shann of Australia, summarizing the report of the five nation inquiry committee, told the Assembly use of Soviet force to "crush the aspiration of the Hungarian people for freedom is one of the tragedies of our times."

Lodge led off the debate on the report before a packed Assembly hall. The public galleries were filled to capacity.

He attacked the Soviet version of events in Hungary of last October as "the truth upside down." He denied Soviet contentions that the troops were called in by Hungarian authorities to restore order.

No Ape I, Says J. Fred Muggs' $500,000 Suit

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Television chimpanzee J. Fred Muggs filed a $500,000 damage suit against Dave Garroway and two associates today, charging they conspired to wreck his career by trying to make a monkey of him.

The 5-year-old chimp personally filed a 15-page legal document with the clerk of the state Supreme Court.

The suit charged that since he left Garroway's "Today" show five months ago, Muggs has been unable to get much work because of public statements that he was "ready for pasture," was developing a bay window, was getting too hard to handle, had developed a tendency to bite and had developed other unpleasant characteristics common among monkeys.

Dressed in blue sneakers, red trousers, a blue shirt and a fur-trimmed calfskin windbreaker, Muggs stepped from a taxi, ambled up the courthouse steps and into clerk Charles McGovern's office. He clutched the legal papers in a wizened paw and pushed them across a desk at McGovern.

"In 40 years, I never saw anything like this," McGovern declared.

Muggs was accompanied by his owners, Carmine Mennella and Leroy Waldron, whose names were on the legal document as officials of J. Fred Muggs Enterprises, Inc. When Muggs got his walking papers last March 1, his owners were receiving $1,275 a week for his daily appearances on "Today."

Defendants named, in addition to Garroway, were Jack Hein and Jack Lescoulie, who are associated with the show, and the National Broadcasting Company, which transmits the show throughout the nation.

An NBC spokesman said none of the defendants wanted to comment on the suit at the present time.

The complaint said Muggs joined the show in February, 1953, for $250 a week and soon was a national figure, appearing regularly on other programs and shows and in exhibitions.

"He received national and international acclaim for his unusual intelligence, training, talent, personality and accomplishments, and became a celebrity and star performer in the entertainment world," the suit said.

Then Muggs' star began to fall the suit said.

"About November, 1956, the defendants entered into a conspiracy with each other to impair the reputation and commercial value of Muggs, to undermine and adversely affect his career as an entertainer and to destroy his value to the plaintiffs as an income producing performer," it charged.

Rumors began to circulate about Muggs, and as a result, the suit said, Muggs' contract was not renewed and he was replaced by a younger chimp, Kokomo Jr. Muggs was refused work by other networks, his owners complained, and his earnings plummeted.

After the suit was filed, Muggs accompanied his owners to the courthouse press room to pose for photographers in exchange for having his head scratched. He shook hands all around and then climbed on a table.

Then he burped.

U.S. Will Perfect Missile In a Year, Wilson Hints

By JACK RAYMOND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Secretary of Defense Wilson indicated today that the United States could perfect the intermediate range 1,500-mile ballistic missile in about a year.

"You can do some pretty astonishing things in a year, if you want to," he said.

It would take more than a year, however, for the Air Force to be ready to use the missile in its operations, he made clear.

As for the missiles race with the Soviet Union, Wilson said he did not know "for sure" which side was ahead.

SAME ATTITUDE

The Soviet announcement of a successful test flight of an intercontinental ballistic missile had not changed his attitude toward the U.S. missiles development program, he said.

The secretary of defense repeatedly has expressed satisfaction with U.S. progress in the development of missiles.

His comments came in response to questions in his office, following the swearing-in ceremoney for Dr. Paul D. Foote, the new assistant secretary of defense for research and engineering.

Dr. Foote was given an interim appointment by President Eisenhower after the Senate Armed Services Committee postponed acting on a recommendation of approval in the closing days of the past session of Congress.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

A question of possible conflict of interest had arisen when Dr. Foote refused to dispose of certain oil securities. Dr. Foote said they were his life savings.

Wilson said today that no difficulty was anticipated in January when the appointment would again be taken up by Congress.

Secretary Wilson also commented on his own plans. He will stay in the Cabinet another month, but probably not later than Oct. 10, he said. Neil H. McElroy, former president of Proctor & Gamble, will succeed him.

LUNCHEON REUNION

Wilson said he was planning a big luncheon reunion of former defense officials at the Pentagon on Sept. 17 to commemorate the unification of the services 10 years ago. McElroy will be present for the anniversary party.

McElroy will tour defense plants for a few weeks before returning to Washington to be sworn in, Wilson added.

Wilson reiterated that he expected to decide on the development of an intermediate range ballistic missile before he leaves. Rival missiles of this type have been developed by the Army and Air Force and to end duplication Wilson has appointed a three-man committee to recommend either a choice or combination of the two weapons.

Employment in U.S. Down 800,000 from July's Record

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Total employment in the United States dropped 800,000 from July's record level to 66,400,000 in August, the government reported today.

A 900,000 drop in August farm employment was only partially offset by a slight — and less than seasonal—increase in the number of non-farm jobholders. The reduction in farm employment was about twice the seasonal average.

The Commerce and Labor Departments also reported that unemployment fell by 400,000 to 2,600,000. The seeming paradox is explained by the fact that some of those leaving jobs — such as housewives and students — were not looking for further employment.

The government defines unemployed persons as those without jobs who are actively seeking work, persons on a 30-day temporary layoff or those who are scheduled to begin a new job within 30 days. Employed persons are all wage and salary workers, plus self-employed persons.

The Commerce and Labor Departments said the sharp drop in August farm employment was due partly to "unfavorable weather conditions." A Labor Department economist reported that hot, dry weather put many farmers behind schedule in harvesting summer crops.

As a result, total employment skidded from the July record of 67,200,000 to 66,400,000. This compared with 66,700,000 employed in August, 1956, when the government was using a slightly different formula to compute employment figures.

Farm employment always drops off in August with completion of summer farm work and the return of students and other seasonal workers to classrooms or other jobs.

But the August drop was the sharpest in 10 years. The decline in August, 1956, was 438,000, less than half what it was last month.

Total non-farm employment in August was estimated at 59,600,000 — almost unchanged from July. Gains in manufacturing and educational services were offset by slight declines among self-employed workers and their family helpers, many in temporary summer enterprises.

Witness Against Maureen Called 'A Hungry Liar' by Prosecution

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10 (UP)—Prosecutor William L. Ritzi in final arguments at the Confidential criminal libel trial today called defense witness James Craig "a hungry liar" whose testimony that he saw film star Maureen O'Hara "cuddling" in a theater was impeached repeatedly.

Craig, an independent television producer in London, came to Hollywood to testify for the defense that as an assistant theater manager he saw the Irish-born actress and a Latin boy friend engaged in a romantic episode in Grauman's Chinese Theater in 1953.

"If ever there was a hungry liar it was James Craig," Ritzi declared. 'I have never seen a witness so thoroughly impeached on the stand before in my life. Mr. Craig verified in minute detail everything in the (Confidential) story. Here is a man caught in his own trap."

Ritzi then outlined the "inconsistencies" in Craig's stories, including changing of the date of the alleged incident, wrongly describing Miss O'Hara's escort, claiming he was an assistant manager when witnesses testified he was only the doorman and saying the theater had a balcony when none existed.

The prosecutor took up Craig's testimony after he described for the jury what he said was the aim of Confidential magazine to print "hot" stories that made people whistle, regardless of whom it smeared.

To obtain such stories, Ritzi told the Superior Court jury, Confidential used procurers, madams, call girls and private detectives whom publisher Robert Harrison instructed to get sensational stories on film stars to boost the magazine's circulation.

"The more lewd and lascivious the story, the more colorful it will be for the magazine," Ritzi quoted Harrison as telling admitted prostitute Ronnie Quillan, who supplied Confidential with material for some of its articles.

"Mr. Harrison had not one single concern whether the name of any person concerned was dragged through the filthy mire of gossip," the prosecutor told the jury of six men and six women as he went into the second day of his summation.

Ritzi based much of his argument for conviction of the magazine, its sister publication, Whisper, and Fred and Marjorie Meade, operators of Confidential's West Coast research agency, on the testimony of Howard Rushmore, former editor of Confidential.

"Rushmore has told us that Harrison wanted more circulation. And how did he get it? Harrison said, 'We need hot, inside stories on Hollywood celebrities. That is what we need to make people whistle.'"

Turning to the Meades, who contended they operated Hollywood Research Inc., as an independent agency, Ritzi said they came to Hollywood "to operate this smut station for Confidential magazine."

The prosecutor compared the "conspiracy" between Confidential magazine and Hollywood Research to two jam smeared children caught with the jam jar.

He said that their tracks "led to the cupboard and back." Ritzi termed the contention that there was no direct connection between Confidential and the Meades as "poppycock."

Let's Never Forget Atlanta Is Great!

Weekend lottery arrests and beginning of lottery trials in Federal Court, with seven city police among the 26 defendants, illustrate that the lottery racket is under control and that Atlanta and Fulton County are cooperating well to keep it so.

This fact, and the beginning of the trials, highlights for us the fundamental soundness of our municipal and county governments and reminds us that while there are seven Atlanta police defendants, some 993 remain unsmirched.

It spotlights, too, the fact that our city is one heavily on the positive asset side of the ledger.

While embarrassed and handicapped by charges against a few of its members, the Atlanta police force remains a good one. It has been unofficially regarded by the FBI, which makes no official ratings, as the second best all-around force in efficiency in the South. A Texas city, whose police are better-paid and whose training course is well-financed and thus more thorough, was viewed as in an unofficial first place.

As Judge Wood said in his recent charge to the present grand jury, we need to rebuild confidence and there is no reason why we cannot. There is much to build on. There always has been a sound foundation.

As for the grand jury, it can help greatly in restoring confidence and bring an end to the maze of rumors which bordered on hysteria. It can conduct its investigations in an atmosphere of calmness and weigh the findings without fear or favor and without prejudice or partisanship.

It is good that a jury committee has been selected to look into gifts to police and city officials. Here is a field easily distorted. It has been customary, especially at Christmas time, for banks, business houses and private citizens to express their appreciation to traffic officers and police for a job well done. Gift certificates, actual gifts and checks are not unusual.

Here we have a complex problem which really amounts to a matter of personal conscience. An officer with common sense might unhesitantly accept a Christmas gift from a reputable bank, business or professional office or even from a private citizen. But he would refuse any gift from any firm, however legally licensed, whose business might profit from special protection. It is easy to see how the matter of Christmas gifts could be used by political partisans to discredit recipients.

Let us have all the necessary investigations for which there is a valid reason —not rumor and innuendo. We can clean up and must clean up anything in our municipal and county affairs which requires it. But let us not forget that all along we have been and are basically a well-managed, great city and county with a police force which should rate even higher following recent action to eliminate weaknesses.

We have much of which to be proud and sure. Atlanta, as we have seen recently, is in a top place in the nation in financial soundness, an indication of honest and efficient management. And on this foundation, we can, as Judge Wood so truly said, proceed to rebuild confidence.

We are a great city and community and must never forget it!

U.N. Condemns Soviet While Hungary Bleeds

The United States and 35 other countries have asked the United Nations to act with all speed to end one of the great crimes of history, the suppression and mutilation of Hungary. In a lengthy report, the U.N. Special Committee on the Problem of Hungary has come up with one of the strongest indictments of the Soviet Union to date.

The document charges the uprising was a purely internal affair, that it was not planned in advance and expressed the urgent desire of the Hungarian people for freedom. The bloodshed which followed was a brutal suppression by Soviet troops of the dissatisfaction of the Hungarian regime with Communist rule and their aspirations for independence.

The suppression still is going on. The Soviet puppet premier, Janos Kadar, is carrying out persecutions and thousands are being shot and imprisoned. Inside Hungary the resistance goes on. And in Poland the grim struggle never ceases.

It was fitting that U.N. Delegate John Cabot Lodge make his strong statement in support of the report. There still is ample evidence that the Hungarians hoped and expected strong American backing in their revolt. Except for a lot of breast-beating, it was not forthcoming. We have limited the number of refugees from Communist terror and treat those we have admitted as "parolees."

It is predicted that world opinion finally will force the Russians to get out of Hungary. Such predictions are based on nebulous hopes but the United Nations has its greatest opportunity to marshal the overwhelming weight of world opinion against a monstrous crime unparalleled in history. If it has no more effect than to deter similar ones elsewhere, it will have served some purpose.

The Mob Will Destroy All It Seeks to Protect

In Nashville, Tenn., fanatic extremists have dynamited a school, destroying it insofar as use is concerned.

The mob destroys what it would protect.

The nation is horrified by this violence and by that in Birmingham, Ala., where an innocent man was inhumanely mutilated by those seeking to elevate themselves in the criminal life of an organization covered by the word "Klan."

The law-abiding people of the nation, and the world, are shocked. We cannot escape history, and the mob brings only sorrow and disaster.

Those who seek to sustain the cause of segregation cannot fail to see that the mobs in Nashville, Birmingham and Little Rock are dooming any hope they may have.

The mob is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored. The next Congress of the United States is certain to pass legislation to cope with them.

All the people of the United States, all of those who support the principles of democracy, all of those who are Christians, will have to pay for this uncivilized violence.

Once again we bespeak help from the governments, local and national, of the great mass of Americans who are law-abiding. In Nashville a thousand out of 200,000 have been violent. In Little Rock perhaps 1,000 out of 150,000 have been violent. The troubled governor of Arkansas says things have got out of hand—beyond his expectation.

U.S. Family Incomes Are Still on the Rise

The Census Bureau reports in Washington Monday that half the nation's 43 million families had incomes of more than $4,800 in 1956. It represents about an 8 per cent increase over 1955. It also represents a further decline in the number in the lower-income brackets.

Seven million families—about one-fifth of the total—still had incomes of $2,000 or less. Unfortunately, the bulk of these still are in the South where the development of industry has been spectacular but which still is behind the rest of the nation in that field.

There is still the shadow of inflation over this continuing surge of prosperity. Yet in spite of it, purchasing power has increased at a more rapid rate. But the threat is there and must be controlled unless the nation wants to run the risk of eventual loss of all its economic gains.

Yesterday in Dayton, Ohio, Atlanta's Richard H. Rich, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn., predicted stepped-up production, fatter paychecks and continued inflationary pressures. This view is shared by most top economists. The big problem is to hit a balance between production and paychecks—an automatic inflation curb. But in June of this year, production was down while incomes were up 5.7 per cent over last year.

The American economy has shown in recent years, however, that Mr. Rich's confidence in our ability to make adjustments to meet changing conditions is justified.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Safety Commissioner Hilton Butler of Tennessee has taken on a redoubtable foe in human vanity. Backed by 30 auto license plates, he told the Legislative Council at Nashville that Tennessee was issuing too many special licenses in behalf of legislators, newspapermen, doctors, amateur radio operators, owners of antique cars, etc., etc. And, everybody will know what he means by "tin plates of vanity."

We are not sure that there is anything wrong in a state's catering to its citizens' foibles.

Still, what improvements might be made if a state license bureau put as much time and effort into revising its license system as into issuing personal plates? Not many states have had the temerity to make the experiment.

More Classrooms, Better Paid Teachers Favored Over Costly 'School Palaces'

Atlanta — The column of Ralph McGill in The Atlanta Constitution from time to time has stressed the importance of additional school facilities in the State of Georgia and the United States in order to take care of our growing population.

Your attention is invited to the September issue of the Readers Digest and an article appearing therein, written by Holman Harvey under the subject "Do School Pupils Need Costly Palaces?" It is my firm belief the article referred to should be printed in every newspaper in the United States, and be further publicized through the radio and television programs. The following is a further quote from this article: "Last year the American people spent, through their local school boards and with some assistance from their states, well over two billion dollars to build schoolhouses. Out of this immense taxation they wound up with only 60,000 or so new classrooms. At the same time, most of the schoolteachers of the nation—the very root and branch of the solid schooling our children need—are trying to live on salaries which no self-respecting bank would offer a junior clerk."

Mr. Harvey stated in reference article that the State of Washington aids a school only up to a cost of $13.62 per square foot and will not contribute a cent for: Auditoriums, swimming pools, stadiums, fireplaces, spectator balconies, bleacher seats or other nonclassroom space. These are considered secondary to the need for more classrooms and better paid teachers.

Incident Pertaining To Syrup Recalled

Atlanta — Concerning Leo Aikman's syrup column, is my syrup story too old? I was born in 1880 and school children carried their lunch to school in a little tin bucket.

One little girl on her first day of school went to her bucket and took the lid off.

Eva replied, "I don't want to eat. I just want to see if my syrup has turned over."

Atlantan Raps Site Of Shopping Center

Atlanta — As president of the Northside Civic Assn., I would like to present the following facts in answer to an editorial published Sept. 6 in The Atlanta Constitution concerning the proposed Lenox Square Shopping Center.

The editorial stated that one factor overlooked by the public about the project was that it was located inside the city limits and would pay city taxes, while developers of such large centers in other places are building them outside the city limits.

One of our main contentions is that this center should be built in a sparsely populated area, such as others have been, for the protection of the most important thing a community has — its homes. While the city tax digest might rise, there is every reason to believe that an equal or greater expense to the city will occur from the down-grading of the residential property and lower assessment to which residential property owners would be entitled. In addition a great sum of money will necessarily be spent by the city in building essential new sewerage mains, widening streets, with all of the expense of condemnation, property purchase and construction.

Over 1,100 citizens of this area have signed a petition and have fought for two years the construction of this mammoth center.

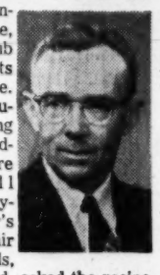

The residents would not object to a community shopping center developed back from Peachtree road for 400 feet, which is already zoned for business, but to extend for nearly 2,000 feet down Lenox road is felt to be an intrusion on a lovely residential community. Competent appraisers have indicated that there would be a drop in residence values of from $500 to $5,000 per home. This property has other reasonable uses. The Noble Foundation, an Oklahoma corporation, bought with full knowledge that it was zoned for residential purposes.

Not So Easy To Replace

In the interest of reducing the divorce rate, here are a couple of antidotes for trouble in the home. Sam Weinberg offers one, in the civic club bulletin he edits at LaFayette. Sam says a couple celebrating their golden wedding day were obviously still happy and enjoying each other's company. A pair of newlyweds, much impressed, asked the recipe for happiness.

The old man said, "Well, I tell you. I've always tried to treat Ma in such a way that if I should die, it would take more than a hot water bottle to replace me."

The other recipe is by Elmer Byers in the Marion (Wis.) Advertiser. Elmer's advice is: "If every husband would take as much trouble to focus on his own small failings as he does in getting a clear picture on TV. . . . And if he'd cheer as loudly over his wife's apple pies as he does at the ball game. . . . And if every wife would cook for her husband as painstakingly as she does for her club . . . and work as hard 'getting an angle' on his interests as she does getting a just right tilt to her hat. . . . And if both would sometimes make believe they were living in front of a picture window, and had a live microphone broadcasting what they say. . . . Why, Reno would be just another village in Nevada!"

SMOG OUT: One man's smog is another man's poison. Quitman, county seat of Brooks County, has been making smog on purpose —to drive away the mosquitoes. It's done by a machine that blows vaporized insecticide through the exhaust manifold of automobile engines. Marietta tried the same sort of gadget several years ago, without the insecticide, to smoke out the birds in the city park—martins I think.

A gadget, the expert explains, has moving parts, a gimmick is as "inert as a curbstone." Gadget or gimmick, in Marietta the martins didn't move. Not until they got good and ready. Then they came back.

They're there now.

TVA Deserves Fair Shake By President and Directors

A statistic of some importance in American life is that sales of electricity in the Tennessee Valley during the 24 years of the Tennessee Valley Authority's existence have multiplied 40 times over. In this respect the TVA area outran the rest of the United States, for the national average was a sevenfold increase since 1933.

This situation makes it the more important that the President should act wisely in his selections for vacancies on the authority's three-man board. There are at present two such vacancies, one of which appears to be temporarily filled by the somewhat reluctant consent of Arnold R. Jones, deputy director of the budget and professor on leave from Kansas State College, to take a recess appointment.

Mr. Jones has not been welcomed by Senators and others from the Tennessee Valley states. In his budget post he is said to have reflected the Budget Bureau's "opposition" to TVA. Since the basic TVA act required that "all members of the board shall be persons who profess a belief in the feasibility and wisdom of this act," Mr. Jones might have some searchings of conscience.

None of his critics have attacked his character. They have just wondered if he were the most highly qualified man for the job proposed for him.

The recent death of TVA Director Raymond R. Paty, a Truman appointee whose term would have expired in May, 1960, gives the President a new dilemma. One member of the board must be a Democrat. A candidate or two have been mentioned, but none regarded as particularly friendly to TVA.

TVA is now entering a critical period of its development. Having used up all the major waterpower resources in its area it has turned to steam, which now produces two-thirds or more of its power. In the midst of this evolution TVA certainly deserves something more than lackadaisical support in its own board of directors—and from President Eisenhower.

Areas of Kingdom Exist Within Man

One day Jesus was talking about spiritual matters with a group of learned though skeptical men. They wished to test the Master by asking those questions which wise men had pondered for generations but had never been able to answer authoritatively. One such question was, When will the Kingdom of God come?

Jesus' reply is one of those verses which Christians have ever since treasured. "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation; neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you" (Luke 17:20-21).

Jesus seems to have meant that all of the potentialities of God's dominion are within a man's mind and soul and heart. Maybe He was suggesting that His questioners had looked far afield for some convincing evidence of God. They had trained their eyes to scan the distant horizon but they had not searched adequately within themselves.

We believe that man is made in the image of his Creator, that the Lord of highest heaven breathed into us something of Himself. Spiritually there is that in us which corresponds to the life and character and nature of God. To the extent that this may be true, then something of the Kingdom is in us.

God and His children, having some area of similarity, can understand each other, can feel for each other, can respond to each other, can love each other. Without some such relationship our lives and the life of the Eternal are separated by a chasm which even the cross of Christ could not bridge.

Often when philosophers and even theologians talk about these matters I get the feeling that they are identifying man with God. Man is God, you hear some say. God is man. That such an estimate of the nature of man and of God should be made is complete folly.

Jesus was suggesting that within our lives there is the essence of godliness, the possibility of godliness, and the capacity to be godly. This divine possibility in us is thwarted by sin and by willful disobedience so that we, who are made in the spiritual image of the Lord, finally look like the Lord's worst adversary.

No man can really live a hopeful, stimulating and zestful life unless he discerns amid the commonplaceness of daily routines some foregleams of promise and some evidences of betterment. A man of faith believes in the very real possibilities of living according to eternal plans even in the midst of temporal circumstances.

This belief, I am sure, is the response of the heart to the Great Heart. It is an echoing of the mind to the Eternal Mind. And that which responds and echoes is the kingdom within us, our real nature finding communion with Him who made us as we are.

Warren Candidacy Is Not Impossible

WASHINGTON—Have no doubt about it, the leaders of the Democratic Party are even now brooding over the choice of their 1960 presidential nominee. And whom do you think some of them are coming up with—seriously? You can figure it out with no difficulty if you take the same premises:

That the nominee does not have to be technically a Democrat, that it would be better to have a candidate whose status is above party as Gen. Eisenhower was when he became the Republican nominee in 1952.

That an essential qualification is the capacity to win.

You have already, I am sure, deducted the name many Northern and Western liberal Democrats would like to have at the head of the ticket three years hence—if they could get him. There are few who fill the foregoing prescription and the most visible is, of course, the chief justice of the United States, Earl Warren.

This is not, I assure you, just a columnist's pipedream on a lean day. I am not originating the idea; I am reporting it. You run into it in numerous quarters in Washington and it has lately been voiced publicly by one of the leading Northern Democrats in the House, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey. Mr. Thompson put it this way to his colleagues:

"Chief Justice Warren will be a young 69 by the time the next presidential candidates are chosen. Perhaps he has no desire to run for office again, but I suggest that the Democratic Party give serious thought to nominating him as its next standardbearer. A Democratic ticket with Warren at its head, coupled with a Meyner (New Jersey governor) or a Kennedy (senator from Massachusetts) would symbolize the very best American ideals and, from the practical standpoint, it would be unbeatable.

"Men are often judged by the company they keep and sometimes by who their enemies are. Warren is well qualified by either method. He deserves serious consideration for the nation's highest office at a time when a man of his ability and philosophy are badly needed."

But are there no drawbacks?

There are. If a Democratic convention nominated the chief justice, there would not just be a Southern walkout; there would be a Southern explosion. A Warren-Kennedy ticket, for example, wouldn't lose just four Southern states as President Truman did in 1948, it would almost certainly lose at least 11 Southern states.

Very possibly a Warren-Kennedy ticket could still win. Republican presidents have won without carrying a single Southern state. But the consequences would be dismemberment of the Democratic Party as it now exists and loss of control of Congress.

Lobbyists Defeated Billboard Controls

WASHINGTON—This is a beautiful country in which we live. Even to those of us who have been all about it many, many times, and into its out-of-the-way recesses, it always is new and fresh. In the vacation season just ending, millions of people have been out looking at it, some exploring new areas, others following familiar trails. What a beautiful land it is—and, oh, what we have done to it!

We have littered its magnificent highways and even in parts of the wilderness set apart for our outings and picnics there are beer cans and soft drink bottles strewn along the open road. When we raise our eyes to enjoy the landscape, our view is shut off by unsightly billboards.

Our Congress had a chance to do something about the billboards on the 41,000 miles of new federal highways that are to be built. There were bills before it to bar billboards on these highways, part of our vast road-building program of the next few years, over which Congress has jurisdiction.

But the House of Representatives never even gave these bills a committee hearing. The Senate Public Works Committee, just before the recent session ended, killed by a 7 to 6 vote a bill from which most of the teeth already had been extracted by a subcommittee.

In a manner of speaking, this was one of the big issues before Congress—that is, if we do really love our land and want to preserve it. For the movement to keep the billboards off of a big section of our highways represents a start in restoring to our country the beauty it possesses but which has been marred by a sort of vandalism of which we should be ashamed.

But the lobby that was busy to keep Congress from banning the billboards had no inhibitions or restraints. Night and day it was active. It included the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, whose 776 members control 90 per cent of billboard space and do a $100 million business a year; the Brotherhood of Painters, a union which claims 12,000 skilled sign and pictorial painters as members, and the Roadside Business Association, which was represented here by a former Democratic leader of the Senate, Scott Lucas of Illinois.

One hundred million dollars can speak with more authority to Congress than a hundred and more million people. The lobby deluged Congress, too, with the usual barrage of synthetic telegrams and letters purporting to represent folks who just couldn't get along without revenue from billboards stuck up on their farms or painted on their barns.

There still is an opportunity to get something done, for there is a second session of the 85th Congress next year. Bills to outlaw the billboards are ready and waiting. It would seem to behoove folks who love this country and want to keep it beautiful to get after their representatives in House and Senate while they are in the recess at home and keep at them next year.

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN TRUCK SKIDDED DURING SHOWER AND STRUCK ANOTHER
Collision Scene Is North Expressway Near the Old Buford Highway, 100 Feet Outside Atlanta City Limits

Truck Crash Injures 2 on Expressway

Two persons were injured Tuesday when one truck skidded on wet pavement on the North Expressway, jumped the center safety island and crashed almost head-on into another truck, police said.

James Smith of 266 Lawton St., was treated at Grady Hospital for a possible fracture of the right leg, cuts and bruises, and William Wise Jr., 25, of 9 Howell St., suffered a broken right arm, cuts and bruises, DeKalb Ptl. Roy Marlow and Clifford Bone said.

Patrolmen said the drivers of both vehicles escaped injury.

Robert L. Litman, 23, of 23 Howell St., NE, said he was driving north on the expressway near the Old Buford Highway when his flat-bodied ton-and-a-half vehicle began to skid, patrolmen related. The machine hurdled the safety strip between the traffic lines, Litman was quoted.

Benson B. Satterfield, 20, of Talmo, driving south in a ton-and-a-half van-type truck, said he saw the other vehicle springing out of control, but was unable to avoid striking it, officers reported.

Patrolmen said the mishap occurred about 100 feet outside the Atlanta city limits during a shower. Both trucks were empty.

No charges were made, officers said.

GMA Youth Beaten After Offering Aid

A 13-year-old Georgia Military Academy student was severely beaten Tuesday by two Negro men whom he had attempted to befriend, police said.

Fred Shelton of Dayton, Ohio, was treated at Grady Hospital and later was transferred to Georgia Baptist Hospital.

East Point police said the youth had been severely beaten, his clothes were ripped as if with a knife, and his glasses broken. They added he was coated with mud.

The youth managed to crawl 100 yards from the mouth of an alley on West Cleveland avenue and call for help, Patrolman Kenneth Stevens said.

Police said they were told young Shelton saw two Negro men park a yellow convertible and walk away, leaving their headlights burning. He called to them and said they had left their lights on.

The youth said both men drew knives and attacked him, beating him and slashing his clothes with the knives.

Thrasher To Report On College Shortage

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. promised Tuesday to supply a full report on a $25,500 shortage at Georgia State College of Business Administration "when I have determined the true facts."

The auditor indicated the case had bizarre angles which have taken three months of auditing, interviewing and even administering lie detector tests to unravel.

His statement was contained in a reply to a letter of inquiry from Gov. Griffin. The governor had asked what steps had been taken to protect the state's interest in the matter.

Griffin sent the letter after a radio station reporter at the morning news conference reported the alleged facts in the case and asked why Thrasher had not filed a report.

The auditor replied that a blanket bond covering all of the college's employes had enabled the Board of Regents to recover the full amount of the shortage.

Thrasher said he expects to dictate a report on the case in a few days. The governor will receive a copy under law, he added.

"If it takes me longer than some folks think is necessary for me to release an audit to the public, this does not disturb me one iota," Thrasher declared.

"I am going to take whatever time is necessary to determine the true facts of the case before I accuse any human being of stealing state funds. . . .

"Such an accusation made by me and released to the press as the law requires has a tremendous impact on the wives, children and husbands of the guilty parties," Thrasher continued.

The auditor called the situation a "twist, because it is the first time in 30 years that it has been intimated that I do not report wrongdoings to the press.

"In fact, I have been constantly accused over a period of years of reporting discrepancies in audits which parties have taken issue with as not being of importance," he wrote.

The identity of guilty parties "does not become a privileged matter until the report is officially made and signed by me . . . When this is done I will have convinced myself that I have determined the true facts," Thrasher wrote.

He assured Griffin of knowledge of the report "whenever the press is in a legitimate position to ask" about it.

Mrs. Gray's Plea Delayed

Arraignment in U. S. District Court here of Mrs. Margaret Burton, alias Mrs. Janet R. Gray, has been postponed because she has declined to waive grand jury indictment, it was disclosed Tuesday by Charles H. Edwards, her attorney.

Edwards said Mrs. Burton would continue to remain in Fulton Tower as she is unable to make the $30,000 bond fixed at the time of her arrest last month in Tulsa, Okla., on a federal warrant charging interstate transportation of stolen property.

Court attaches explained if Mrs. Burton had abandoned her right to have her case heard by the grand jury, the U. S. attorney's office could have filed an information against her stating the charge and the arraignment could have proceeded.

At the time of arraignment, the accused may plead guilty or innocent. The next session of the grand jury will be late October. Mrs. Burton was formerly bookkeeper for a Decatur physicians' clinic where an alleged $100,000 shortage was discovered.

Cocke Belittles Red Jetliner

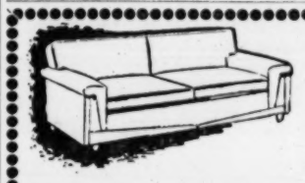

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 10 (UP)—A U.S. airlines executive tonight belittled the importance of Russia's development of a commercial jet airliner, saying the plane is a converted Soviet air force bomber.

Erle Cocke Jr., vice president of Delta Airlines with headquarters in Atlanta, said the U.S. could also have a jet passenger transport in service "if the Air Force wanted to lend the airlines some of its jet bombers or tankers."

Cocke, former American Legion commander and Defense Department adviser, told a tri-state aviation conference here that "poorly informed" reporters have "gone overboard" about the Soviet jet airliner, the TU-104.

It would be a "serious mistake," Cocke said, "to assume that because the Soviets now have a jet passenger transport in service they have outdistanced America's aircraft industry."

Billy Wallace To Wed Margaret, Paper Says

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The newspaper Daily Sketch said tonight that Princess Margaret has decided to marry Billy Wallace, a long-time socialite escort.

The tabloid devoted the entire front page of tomorrow's paper to "The Princess, Marriage and Billy Wallace." Early editions of the paper hit the streets tonight.

"It is now believed that Princess Margaret has decided to marry soon and that her husband-to-be is Mr. Billy Wallace, for years her constant companion and escort," political correspondent Guy Eden reported.

"Their close friends think the marriage will take place before the princess goes on her West Indies tour next April," the Sketch said.

"It is understood that the future of the Princess has been under consideration at Balmoral Castle in the last few weeks," the paper said.

It was at Balmoral Castle in Scotland that Margaret celebrated her 27th birthday Aug. 21, for the first time without prompting rumors of a new boy friend. Her sister, Queen Elizabeth, and other members of the royal family are vacationing at Balmoral Castle.

The ranks of eligible suitors for the Princess have been growing smaller. The last man to withdraw from the "Margaret set" was handsome 34-year-old millionaire Christopher Loyd, who today announced his engagement to former debutante Joanna Smith-Bingham, 21.

Loyd reportedly broke the news to the Princess at a grouse shooting party at Balmoral Castle last week. Since then the press has openly commented on the spinsterhood of the pretty, blue-eyed Princess.

Wallace, 30, son of American author Herbert Agar, has been Margaret's most faithful escort through a series of rumored new beaux for years.

The Sketch story was the hardest report of marriage for Margaret since her romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, which ended with a complete break after weeks of royal consultation. Townsend is divorced, which is frowned on by the crown.

Capt. Townsend Throws Plate, Won't Comment

CARACAS, Venezuela, Sept. 10 (AP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend, British war hero friend of Princess Margaret, hurled his breakfast plate at a photographer today.

Townsend refused comment on a report by the London Sunday Pictorial that he and Margaret, who parted in October, 1955, had vowed never to marry anyone else.

"I won't say anything at all about the royal family," he said.

Arizona Raftsmen Conquer Roughest Part of Rio Gorge

QUESTA, N.M., Sept. 10 (AP)—Two Arizona River rapids riders have negotiated the roughest part of the Rio Grande gorge in an unprecedented trip through high and rocky waters.

A Questa couple, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jones, followed the progress of Jim Lindsey, 32, and Lou Bettis, 29, both of Phoenix, all day yesterday.

Six men have died in previous attempts.

Mrs. Jones said today the river riders made the rapids in the river "very beautifully."

Jones, a miner and saw mill worker, and his wife drove along the canyon rim from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. yesterday and kept the river runners in sight most of the time.

In the late afternoon, after Lindsey and Bettis had pulled their plywood and innertube rafts over to the river bank, Jones went down into the canyon and talked with them.

Tito Backs Gomulka in Land Claim

By ELIE ABEL

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 10—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia strongly affirmed today Poland's right to keep the Oder-Neisse lands taken from Germany at the end of World War II.

This was an important part of Belgrade's enthusiastic welcome for Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish United Workers (Communist) Party, who arrived in the morning on a seven-day visit.

THE RED CARPET

Formal talks between the Polish and Yugoslav delegations start tomorrow morning. Today Belgrade treated Gomulka and his colleagues to the stylized ceremonial of its class-A official welcome.

There was the inevitable embrace from Tito at Zemun Airport as the Polish leaders' IL14 landed at 10 a.m. Then came the bouquets handed to Gomulka by four dewy-eyed Young Pioneers.

A FAMILY REUNION

This was followed by the triumphal entry into Belgrade in an open Rolls-Royce and the crowd of 100,000 or more shouting "Tito, Gomulka!" and "Long Live Poland!"

By late afternoon, with all the spontaneity of a Chinese opera, Gomulka was taken sightseeing.

The Polish delegation was clearly delighted with its first day in Belgrade. As one member expressed it: "This is not like a diplomatic visit at all, it is a family reunion."

Your Boss Could Get Sick of You And Find Himself Sick—in Bed

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP)—Your boss may get sick simply because he can't get along with his employes or other people, a physician said today.

Dr. Franklin S. Du Bois and three other experts spoke on the question of "Are Executives Living Too Dangerously?"

And to whom did they speak? Worried executives, of course. They were attending the 142nd annual meeting of the Manufacturers Assn. of Connecticut.

Du Bois, of the Silver Hill Foundation, New Canaan, said the big brass wasn't living too dangerously, just too carelessly.

And, Du Bois said, "unharmonious relationships between human beings always produce anxiety and even a cursory survey of public health records indicates that sickness due to anxiety is becoming more frequent."

Teamster Rivals of Hoffa Say Beck Is Supporting Him

SEATTLE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Three candidates for the Teamsters Union presidency aimed uncomplimentary remarks at James R. Hoffa, another aspirant today as all four maneuvered for western support for the $50,000-a-year job.

Hoffa, of Detroit, whose supporters contend he has the best chance to succeed Dave Beck as head of the 1½-million member union, scoffed at claims of the other three.

Hoffa went before the policy committee of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters, along with Thomas L. Hickey of New York, Thomas J. Haggerty of Chicago and Rep. John Shelley (D-Calif). All seek the conference's 486 votes in the union convention at Miami Sept. 30.

Shelley and Haggerty said there were rumors that Beck, who has announced he is retiring, may have made a deal to support Hoffa.

The agreement, they said, would be that Beck support Hoffa in exchange for an assurance Beck would get a $50,000-a-year pension and the title of "president emeritus." Haggerty and Shelley said they had no personal knowledge such a deal had been made.

Beck wasn't available for comment. A Beck spokesman who declined use of his name said the pension was assured anyway under union agreement.

Hoffa said the 1,883 delegates to the Miami convention "and nobody else" will decide who will be the next president.

Haggerty and Shelley said they would press for a secret ballot at the Miami convention. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) sent a telegram endorsing Haggerty and also expressing hope there would be a secret ballot.

Rights Bill May Upset GOP's Plans in South

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

Republican plans to build a strong rival party in Georgia and the South may be upset by passage of the civil rights bill.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell is expected to waste little time in mounting a vigorous drive to enforce the new right - to - vote measure in Dixie.

William M. Bates

It remains to be seen whether he will use the bill in a sincere effort to put Negroes on the voting lists in Southern states or to impress those already voting in Harlem and other Northern Negro districts.

In either case, the attorney general isn't likely to win many friends and converts among the whites of the South.

As the bill was signed by President Eisenhower, it was much watered down from its original form—thanks to the efforts of the Southern bloc in the Senate. As Sen. Talmadge put it, "we were able to take a monster and tame him down to a mad dog."

But it is still plenty tough.

It appears more and more obvious that the Republican party, under the leadership of such men as Brownell and Vice President Nixon, is irrevocably committed to capturing the Negro vote in the Northern and Eastern states where it has a voice out of all proportion to its actual strength.

LIMITED SUCCESS

The GOP drive for the Negro vote began in earnest during last year's presidential election with Mr. Nixon as the chief spokesman. It met immediate though limited success; Nixon is now reported to feel that the future of his party, and possibly his own presidential aspirations, lie in completing the capture of the Negro vote.

Another part of the Republican strategy was to put through Congress a civil rights bill with the GOP label spread all over it. In speeches before Negro audiences during last fall's campaign, Nixon blamed the Southern influence within the Democratic party and in Congress for blocking civil rights legislation.

Things went well for the GOP plan until the civil rights bill hit the Senate. There the intelligent strategy of the Southern bloc and Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson's brilliant generalship completely reshaped the bill. The measure that emerged from the parliamentary back and forth was neither a Republican nor a Democratic bill, but a compromise.

OPPORTUNITY TO RECOUP

Robbed of clear credit for passage of the first civil rights bill in more than 80 years, the GOP now has an opportunity to recoup and prove its championship of the Negro through the vigorous administration and enforcement of the right-to-vote measure.

This Mr. Brownell is expected to do. He may move in one of two ways:

1. Attempt to "over-enforce" the bill by selecting situations or locals in which the new federal law might be immediately ineffective in an effort to discredit the measure and set the stage for seeking a stronger bill later.

2. Make an "intelligent" effort to enforce the law in areas where it would prove effective thus showing that the Republicans mean business about civil rights and can deliver.

"OPERATION DIXIE"

It will be interesting to watch what happens now to the Republican National Committee's "Operation Dixie," the latest sobriquet for the age-old GOP dream of a two-party South. One of the country's top political reporters says the leadership of the Republican party has decided to "write off" the South except for the Negro voters it might win below the Mason and Dixon line.

Georgia's fifth congressional district, comprising the Greater Atlanta area, will be one of the places to watch. By picking bright young men to carry the party banner, the GOP has made considerable headway in the past two races in an effort to unseat Congressman James C. Davis.

The Republicans are planning to make another try for the seat next year. But they'll have to have a lot of white votes to win it.

Shut-Ins Can Still Worship

QUESTION: I went to church as long as I could. Now I am elderly and infirm and cannot attend services. Does this really matter? I try to live a Christian life and do all the good I can for others.

T. T.

ANSWER: I am glad to take this opportunity of sending a brief message to you and other shut-in Christians who are denied the privilege of worshiping in church on Sundays.

Such worship is, I know, one of the great joys of the Christian life and a real means of grace; but I would ask you to remember that true worship is not dependent upon particular times and places.

Read in your Bible what the Lord Jesus said about that to the Samaritan woman—John 4:19-24.

Your home may be your Bethel where you find God's presence always near and in the sanctuary of your heart you may draw near to Him at all times through Jesus Christ.

Participate when you can in the religious services on the radio. This will give you a sense of fellowship with other Christians and help you to feel that you are not entirely cut off from the worship of the church.

Above all, I would urge you to exercise a special ministry of prayer during these days. Make this a real piece of Christian service as you remember before God the needs of His church and His world.

Cleared Slum May Be DeKalb Courthouse Site

Harry C. Adley, representing Simons & Co. which is making a study of municipal problems of DeKalb and Decatur, told the DeKalb Grand Jurors Assn. at a dinner meeting that such a move is being considered. Voters rejected a proposed bond issue for a new courthouse in an election in May.

Adley told the jurors that his firm's planning study will set aside space for a courthouse in its recommendations for planning for future growth.

In a business session the group authorized its legal committee to draw up a resolution urging that the DeKalb legislative delegation work harder toward securing state funds for road construction. The June term of the grand jury had criticized the delegation in its presentments.

Gov. Faubus' Use of Troops Is Right, Talmadge Asserts

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 10 (AP)—Arkansas Gov. Faubus is within his rights in calling out the National Guard to stop integration in Little Rock schools, according to Georgia Sen. Talmadge.

"Our national administration is attempting to make a hollow shell out of state and national governments. This has been accomplished by judicial decrees which clearly violate the Constitution and by legislative enactments that clearly violate the Constitution," Talmadge said in a statement here.

"It is vitally necessary that they be strongly resisted on the federal, state and local level. The governor of Arkansas as conservator of the peace is in much better position to know what will break the peace than an imported federal judge from North Dakota.

"The governor of each of the 48 states is under a duty to take action as may be necessary to maintain the peace and tranquility of the state," the Georgia senator said.

Asked if he believed President Eisenhower might call the National Guard into federal duty in an attempt to solve the Arkansas situation, Sen. Talmadge admitted that it is a possibility.

"But Arkansas probably has emergency clauses in the state constitution which would allow him to immediately establish a state guard," the senator said.

"I know that Georgia has such provisions and if I were governor and a situation such as that arose I would organize the state troops," he said.

The senator was in Savannah to address a meeting of the Rotary Club.

He labeled the Civil Rights Bill, signed into law yesterday by President Eisenhower, as a "pernicious piece of legislation but infinitely better than it was when it came to the Senate."

Justify Guard Call, U.S. Orders Faubus

20 for a hearing on a temporary injunction

The judge can at that time set a hearing on a permanent injunction if he grants the temporary order.

This was interpreted by court aides as meaning the governor can keep the Guard at Central High School for 10 more days without federal interference.

Faubus, in an interview with newsmen, said the National Guard force—reduced from 200 to about 100—would continue to surround the school and prevent Negroes from enrolling. He said he cut the number of guardsmen because tensions have lessened.

Asked why he had not made a public appearance outside the mansion until the news conference, the governor replied: "For security reasons for one thing and others I couldn't discuss.

The governor added he would not pull out the troops that surround his mansion. A reporter asked him why the guardsmen had permitted the U.S. marshal to enter with the summons today, and Faubus replied:

"I believe in the court. I believe in the law of the land. What would be the purpose of my dodging around trying to avoid service?"

The governor, however, would not say whether he would appear personally in court for the hearing Sept. 20.

Faubus repeated he did not feel his National Guard action violated the U.S. District Court's desegregation order.

"I could have played it safe and waited until violence occurred and then called out the Guard," he said. "But I felt that wouldn't have been living up to my responsibility to maintain peace and order in the community."

If Davies issued a temporary injunction, Faubus still can appeal. If the governor wins his appeal, the situation is right back where it began.

If Faubus ignores such an injunction, or loses his appeal, Davies could cite him for contempt of court. He then could try Faubus for civil contempt and clap him in jail until he bowed, or try him for criminal contempt and give him a jail sentence.

Suppose Faubus should ignore an injunction and not go to court or permit himself to be taken to face a contempt citation? The judge could still sentence him. But the Eisenhower administration would have to worry about what to do then.

The effigy was hung near stairs at North Little Rock High School. It bore a sign reading, "To Hell with Integration."

The Negro reporter whose presence stirred a crowd appeared at Little Rock's Central High School. He was Moses Newsom, Memphis, Tenn., here on assignment from the Afro-American newspaper of Baltimore. Guardsmen escorted Newsom out of the area.

Plot Charges Must Hang Together, Judge Tells Ingram Prosecution

During the course of Morris' testimony Tuesday, the government submitted 85 items as evidence. Only 33 of the items were admitted, however. The government charges the items were seized the night of the raid on Ingram's garage.

Asinof objected more than 40 times during the day to various items on the grounds they were irrelevant to the case.

Morris described most of the items as having been used in a lottery operation at the garage.

Meanwhile, Judge Sloan temporarily quashed a subpoena issued for Fulton County grand jury testimony relating to statements given the jury by former Atlanta policeman Ronnie M. Clark and Patrolman R. T. Appling.

Judge Sloan held the defense had no right to the records unless the two men testify in the federal trial. He said, if they do, he would consider a motion to call for the records.

It took two large canvas post office carts to haul the government's items to be submitted in evidence into the courtroom Tuesday.

Judge Sloan asked Ivey if it would not be possible for the government to have witnesses testify to the existence of some of the articles—ranging in size from paper clips to card tables—rather than having the actual articles submitted.

"I'm just trying to get it where we won't need a truck to haul all these exhibits," he said.

Ivey pointed out that the defense had objected earlier to "our not having the actual objects here."

The government has indicated it plans to call between 45 and 50 witnesses in the trial. Predictions Tuesday were that the case may take several weeks to try.

11 Lottery Cases Are Reset by Fulton

Eleven of 12 lottery cases in Criminal Court of Fulton County were reset Tuesday because their lawyers were engaged in aiding defendants in the federal conspiracy trial that is now in session.

Court attendants said attorney Wesley Asinof and John C. Tyler were representing the majority of the lottery defendants.

1656 Wreck Found?

PERTH, Sept. 10 (AP)—Two west Australian skin divers, Alan Robinson and Bruce Phillip, believe they have found the wreck of the Dutch ship Gilt Dragon that sank in 1656 with a loss of 117 lives and gold and silver worth $2,800,000.

Dynamite Wrecks Nashville School; Kasper Seized and Warned by Police blasting equipment was found inside.

Later today, another man and a juvenile were picked up for questioning when police found wiring in their car. The man was identified as William Arnold Wilkins, 19.

At his temporary White House in Newport, R.I., President Eisenhower called the dynamiting of the Nashville school a "terrible thing."

The White House also disclosed that U.S. District Judge William E. Miller in Nashville had asked the FBI to investigate the bombing and that federal agents were closeted with the judge.

Asked whether the President might address a special radio and television appeal to the South for "patience," Press Secretary James Hagerty said, "I know of no such plans at this time and if the President did this, it would not be addressed to one section of the country, but all of the United States."

KASPER PICKED UP

Police Chief Douglas Hosse and Asst. Chief Frank Muller picked up Kasper when he came to court to discuss the cases of some of the others arrested.

He was charged with disorderly and offensive conduct, vagrancy and loitering.

Kasper made bonds totaling $1,000 and was immediately rearrested for parking in a restricted zone. He made another $250 bond and was released.

Police said he would be promptly re-arrested if he repeated any of his "inflammatory statements" at a segregation rally scheduled on the Capital Square tonight.

However, a large force of policemen moved into the square 15 minutes before the meeting was scheduled and cleared it of the few groups of people who had begun to form.

NO MEETING

"There will be no meeting here tonight," one officer said.

Kasper already is under bond for two convictions in U.S. District Court at Knoxville for violating a federal injunction not to interfere with integration at Clinton, Tenn.

Hosse told his men at roll call today, "We've taken about all that we can be expected to take."

"Those who do not intend to obey the law can either get out of town or be subject to immediate arrest," Hoose said.

But disorders continued through the day. At the turbulent Fehr School a rock fight broke out as two Negro men escorted a Negro mother and her terrified child out the door at the end of classes. Both Negro men were arrested after one of them allegedly drew a pistol.

At Buena Vista School, the handful of children were dismissed early and the principal and teachers personally delivered the two Negroes to their homes. First, they looked under the hoods of their cars for booby traps, so alarmed had school people become.

Dynamite wrecked the Hattie Cotton School about 1:45 a.m. (EST). The blast blew out all the inside walls of the school, wrecked the equipment and left the building "a total loss," school officials said.

Not even a janitor was on duty at that hour and no one was injured although the blast shook residents out of their beds for blocks around.

LIVES NEARBY

"I was reading when it felt like my bed was going to fly out of the house," said Shirley Hunt, who lives nearby.

The dynamiting climaxed day and night-long milling and shouting around the seven schools integrated at the first grade level as a preliminary compliance with a U. S. District Court order to mix the classes in this city. It was the first destruction of an integrated school in the South since the anti-segregation decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in 1954.

The Nashville Banner, offering a $1,000 reward for arrest and conviction of any of the dynamiters, said editorially: "If Kasper is not locked up, run him out of town."

MAYOR ARRIVES

Despite the turmoil, Mayor Ben West arrived home from a trip today and voiced belief that "law and order will prevail." He said that police can "handle the situation" and there were no plans to ask Gov. Frank Clement for help. Clement sent National Guardsmen with tanks to put down riots at Clinton a year ago.

Of the 19 Negro children who sat down with white seven-year-olds in Nashville schools yesterday, only 10 were back today. Three were sent home for improper registration but their parents were told they could come back when their transfers were in order.

70 PCT. ABSENT

Of the white children, about 70 per cent were absent. Many parents withdrew their children when the Negroes first appeared but many others kept them home today because of fear for their safety after the dynamiting.

The 390 whites and one Negro from the Hattie Cotton School, of course, had no place to go. School officials said they would be assigned to other schools when the confusion abates.

About an hour before classes were scheduled to start at the Fehr School, police found three men sitting in a car near the grounds. They were picked up for questioning and all three later were charged on both state and city counts of unlawful possession of weapons.

Police said the car, emblazoned on the outside with Klan stickers, contained a detonator, a blackjack and a huge jungle knife.

The occupants were identified as Benson Crimmons, 32, James R. Harris, 47, and J. B. Blackwell, 42. They were held in lieu of $25,000 bail. Also picked up for questioning about the Hattie Cotton bombing were Carroll Crimmons, brother of the man charged, and W. D. Hodge.

Florida Prisons Hit As 'Country Clubs'

PANAMA CITY, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP)—A veteran jurist charged today Florida's new prison director is turning state prisons into "a country club."

Circuit Judge E. Clay Lewis voiced his criticism of prison director R. O. Culver while sentencing a convict to an additional four-year term for breaking out of an experimental prison farm near Panama City.

Lewis, onetime speaker of the Florida House of Representatives, said he believed Culver's prison correctional methods were "anything but good," and added, "Soon he will be taking them (prisoners) out on yachts."

U.S. Investigates Shipments Of Sugar to Moonshiners

las agents have formed teams to check refinery loading docks "to see what gypsy haulers are buying loads of sugar."

Agents radio information on suspicious shipments to other teams in cars so that the trucks can be followed, McPherson explained.

"We've been gathering evidence which will show that some of these sugar haulers are part of conspiracies to violate internal revenue laws," McPherson said. The offense is a felony carrying maximum punishment of $10,000 fine and five years jail sentence.

McPherson and two other Atlanta regional officials — Louis Howell, assistant commissioner, and James H. Castley, supervisor of raw materials—met with Dallas officials recently to plan the investigation.

McPherson said the new campaign was spurred by the success of the government's drive to prevent sugar sales by wholesalers and retailers to moonshiners.

In Washington, a revenue official said, "We know of some moonshiners that have traveled as far as 500 to 1,000 miles looking for sugar. Some fellows from Georgia went clear up to Pennsylvania and told sugar dealers there that money was no object.

"The wholesale price of 12 half-gallon fruit jars of illegal whisky used to be about $20," the official said. "Now it's up to $30 or $40. In Florida a five-gallon jug used to cost $10. Now the price is $18. In Georgia the retail price has gone up to $16 a gallon at the retail level. That's $4 a quart. If the price keeps going up, people are going to forget about moonshine and stick to legitimate brands."

McPherson said the price of moonshine in the Atlanta area has increased by $4 a case (six gallons) in the past 15 days.

4-H Installs State Officers And Picks 12 Winners

Georgia 4-H Club members, busily working on the "long row to hoe" to Chicago, convened in Atlanta Tuesday to decide which champions will get the all-expense-paid trip to the national convention in the Windy City.

Approximately 200 farm youths are competing for the honor. By Tuesday night, 12 had already been selected on performance records as state champions. Several will have to compete further to get to make the Chicago trip, as some contests are on a regional basis. A total of about 30 will make the trip, but not until judges decide which demonstration or exhibit is best.

Last three to be named as state champions were Wilda Story, Chatham County, and J. B. Short Jr., Harris County, both citizenship winners, and Martha Culver, Hancock County, frozen foods.

Earlier Tuesday Willette Lupo and Anthony Tanner, both of Tift County, won in achievement, and Patsy Bond, Hart County, dairy achievement.

HONORARY MEMBERS

Three more Georgians were surprised winners Tuesday night. These three were named "Honorary 4-H Club Members" by the farm youths.

So honored were Arnold Almand, of the Farmers Club of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Bill Hosch, executive secretary of the Georgia Bankers Assn., and Jack Hassell, lubrication engineer of the American Oil Co.

The announcement of the honorary memberships was made at assembly at the auditorium Tuesday night. The 4-H members were guests at a dinner given by the Bankers Assn. Tuesday night.

New officers of the group were installed Tuesday afternoon. Ronald Odum, Wayne County, is new president. New vice presidents are Angeline Peavy, Dooly County, and Nick Bledsoe, Quitman County. June Fletcher, Irwin County, is secretary, and Sue Cowart, Jenkins County, treasurer. John Hodges, Evans County, is state reporter.

Citizenship winner Wilda Story was state winner in girls' records in 1954. Both she and J. B. Short were state achievement winners last year. As citizenship winners they will compete further for the right to attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in November.

Wilda, 19, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Story of Savannah. J. B., also 19, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Short Sr., of Chipley.

3RD STATE HONOR

The achievement award is the third state honor for Anthony Tanner. Last year he was state and national winner in tractor maintenance and also state winner in community relations. Willette Lupo, the girl achievement winner was state garden winner in 1954.

They, too, must compete further for a trip to Chicago this year. Both are 18. Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tanner of Tifton. Willette's parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lupo of Omega.

Martha Culver is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Culver of Sparta. During her six years of work with her frozen foods project she has packaged for the home freezer 450 quarts of fruits, 795 quarts of vegetables, 2,902 pounds of meats, and 540 cooked dishes.

Martha has competed in a number of other projects and in 1955 won second place in the state public speaking project.

Patsy Bond, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Bond, is a veteran dairy cattle judge and showman. In her seven years of club work she has won two grand championships, two senior championships and 20 first prizes with her dairy cattle and two first prizes in showmanship.

Competitions will continue Wednesday.

Climax of the busy day will be a banquet given by The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution. Here The Journal will announce the seven winners of its $500 scholarships, and The Constitution will name two state and 12 district winners of its leadership awards.

4-H Delegate Here From Farm in Arctic

Delegate to the 4-H meeting from farthest away was Per Helsingeng, whose farm is north of the Arctic Circle in Norway.

Per is visiting this country as part of the International Farm Youth Exchange, a 4-H sponsored group with members in 43 countries.

Per is interested in dairy farming and is staying in Georgia on the farm of W. W. Eidson of Dunwoody, DeKalb County. He has been in Georgia since Aug. 15 and will go back to Norway early in December.

Expansion Of Nurses' Unit Asked

Plans for a $500,000 educational unit for the Georgia Baptist Hospital school of nursing will be brought before the Georgia Baptist Convention's annual session at Valdosta in November.

The executive committee of the convention viewed the plans here Tuesday and gave its approval for their presentation to the convention.

If the convention approves the recommendation, work on the two-story structure will begin around Jan. 1, Edwin B. Peel, hospital administrator said.

The structure will provide space for the educational activities of the school and will allow an enrollment of 500 student nurses.

The proposed building will be constructed at the corner of Boulevard and Barker Place, NE, Peel added.

The plans were presented to the executive committee by Dr. Louie D. Newton, chairman of the hospital's building committee. He said that ultimate plans call for an additional eight-story nurses' home to be built adjacent to the educational structure.

The educational building will be financed with a Ford Foundation grant of $232,120 and funds from a special hospital operating and building fund reserve now on hand, Dr. Newton said.

Classes are now being held in the hospital and in the nurses' home. Peel said that the September class will bring school enrollment to 396.

Prisoner Flees From Ft. McPherson And Is Hunted by Armed Soldiers

Armed soldiers from Fort McPherson searched residential areas around the military post Tuesday for an Army prisoner who escaped from a work detail. The Army said the escapee was not considered dangerous.

Two prisoners climbed a fence on Lee street, SW, but one was recaptured almost immediately, the Army said. The escape took place at 1:30 p.m. from the old motor pool at the post.

The name and sentence of the escapee was not released by the Army. He was only described as a short-term prisoner jailed for a minor breach of regulations.

Liquor Store Plea Denied

Judge E. E. Andrews of Fulton Superior Court Tuesday denied a motion for a new trial for Atlanta officials who were ordered to have closed a liquor store operating too close to a church.

However, city officials said they would appeal to the Georgia Supreme Court and the Byrd Drive-In Liquor Store, 608 McDaniel St., SW, will continue to operate.

Judge Andrews ordered the store's permit revoked July 11 because it was located less than 100 yards from the Greater Mt. Calvary Baptist Church (Negro) on Glenn street, SW, in violation of state law.

City Attorney Jack Savage said the city would file a bill of exceptions to take the case to the supreme court to settle the issue of locating liquor stores in urban sections.

CITY HALL NEWS

$1.8 Million Scrip Sold To 2 Firms

Atlanta aldermen Tuesday sold $1,800,000 worth of waterworks revenue certificates to Blyth & Co., of New York, and Robinson-Humphrey, Inc., of Atlanta, and associates.

Average interest will be 3.583894 for the 20-year life of the securities, and interest will amount to $713,195.

City Comptroller Earl Landers said there were nine bidders for the certificates, the largest number ever to make offers for any Atlanta securities. He said the highest interest asked was $752,639 for the life of the issue, a bid $39,444 more than the low bid which was accepted.

He said he is not positive what influence a recent "double A" rating by Moody's Investors Service, New York, had on the saving, but said he is positive it had a substantial influence on the "good bids received."

New Park Sites

The aldermanic board's parks committee Tuesday requested that Land Agent Harry Andrews be authorized to negotiate for two additional park sites. One would be for white persons in the Adamsville area, and the other for Negroes off South Pryor road.

Traffic Board To Weigh Curbs on Parking, Speed

By HERMAN HANCOCK

New parking restrictions and speed limits will be considered at a meeting of the traffic and transportation commission at 2 p.m. next Tuesday in another effort to expedite the flow of vehicles on several important thoroughfares.

Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins said Tuesday he will seek the new parking bans and speed zones to expedite traffic and to make speed limits conform more to driving customs.

Three stretches Ponce de Leon avenue are included in the parking regulations.

ALL-TIME BAN

One would ban parking at anytime on the north side from Moreland avenue to the Southern railroad belt line at the ball park to provide two inbound and three outbound lanes of traffic. The center line of the street will be shifted to provide the extra outbound traffic lane.

Another regulation would bar parking at all hours on the south side from the Southern railway belt line to Bonaventure avenue. The third would prohibit parking from 4 until 6 p.m. on the south side from Bonaventure avenue to Moreland avenue.

Bevins also said he will recommend that parking be barred at anytime on the west side of Peachtree street from Porter place to Baker street to provide two lanes of traffic. He pointed out that parking now is barred northward from Porter place.

ON EDGEWOOD

In addition, Bevins will ask that parking be barred at all hours on the north side of Edgewood avenue from Boulevard to Piedmont avenue to provide two lanes of traffic into town and three outbound lanes to Boulevard. The stretch is now nonparking from 7 until 9 a.m. for inbound traffic and from 4 until 6 p.m. for outbound traffic.

Following are the speed limit changes Bevins said he is ready to recommend:

Wisconsinite Gets Atlanta Theater Post

Phillip Dorn, a native of Wisconsin with a wide background in little theater work, has been named technical director of Theater Atlanta.

Dorn will supervise backstage activities at all productions of Atlanta's new community theater group, according to Richard Aeck, president of Theater Atlanta. Dorn comes to Atlanta from Texas, where he did similar work with the Houston and Corpus Christi little theaters. He studied at the American Theater Wing.

Theater Atlanta will open its first season Oct. 8-12 with a production of the comedy "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" at the Community Playhouse.

Any person interested in volunteer backstage work is invited to report to Dorn Saturday at Theater Atlanta headquarters in the DAR Building at 15th street and Piedmont road, NE. The new technical director said volunteers are needed for painting, building, set-designing, stage-managing, sound and electrical work, costuming and makeup. Theater Atlanta officials also will welcome donations of clothing, rugs, and furniture for use in productions.

Russia Is Outstripping U.S. In Science, Newsmen Hear

Americans seriously underestimate Russia's scientific and economic progress, an Associated Press foreign affairs analyst told Atlanta newsmen Tuesday night

Tom Whitney, addressing the Atlanta Professional Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, warned that the U.S.S.R. "is not stinting any expense whatsoever on science and technology."

He noted Russia:1. Has the only jet airliners in the world operating on scheduled flights, 2. Has the lead in operational intercontinental ballistic missiles, 3. Has built a larger atom-smashing plant than any in the United States and, 4. May well beat the United States in launching an earth satellite station.

Whitney, a specialist in background information on events in Communist countries, quoted reports that Russia will be ahead of the United States research for at least the next six years.

"We can't rest on our laurels," he said. "They're working 24 hours a day, while, if the truth were known, we're probably working about six."

In response to questions, Whitney:

Said the United States should have sent a delegation of "typical American youth" to the Moscow Youth Festival,

Said Khrushchev ("a gambler") will threaten war should the United States send armed forces into the Mid-East.

Predicted the present Russian leadership will not return to a Stalin-like regime of arbitrary terror.

Credited native Russian scientists with "the biggest part" of the progress that country has made in the atomic and guided missile fields.

Newby Indicted

4 Accused of Murder In Motorcycle Death

Four young Rome men were arrested on murder warrants Tuesday in the death of a motorcyclist early Sunday which police said climaxed a highway drag race.

The four are Ralph Maxwell, 19, Gary Holmes, 23, Aubrey Suttles, 22, and Billy Johnson, 18, all of Rome.

All four were being held in the Floyd County jail without bond while indictments against them for murder were being drawn for presentation to the grand jury.

They were arrested on warrants issued to Floyd County Patrolman Lee Snow, who investigated the accident on U.S. 27, north of Rome Sunday, which fatally injured Sidney H. Corbin, 22, of Crystal Springs.

Snow identified Maxwell as driver of a car which hit Corbin's motorcycle head-on and then crashed into another car, parked on the side of the highway. Holmes was driver of another car headed south on U.S. 27 which Maxwell was attempting to pass when he hit the motorcyclist, Snow said.

Suttles was a passenger in the Maxwell car and Johnson was riding with Holmes, according to the officer. Snow said statements from witnesses alleged the four Romans had planned a highway race on U.S. 27 while they were at a Rome drive-in restaurant early Sunday.

He said the four denied the cars were racing at the time the crash occurred.

Sentenced to Chair

John Henry White, a Negro who escaped from the Berrien County prison camp in August and was charged soon afterward with raping a young white mother, has been sentenced to be electrocuted. The execution has been set Oct. 4 at Reidsville after a Superior Court in Homerville found White guilty of rape Monday . . . A short course on leafy vegetables will be held at Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College in Tifton Sept. 13. . . . An 18-month-old Eastman child, Emory E. Warren Jr., died in Dodge County Hospital early Tuesday, 12 hours after he drank rat poision. . . . The victim in a traffic wreck near Dublin Friday, Henry Lamar Thornton, was listed as still in "critical" condition Tuesday. Two Dublin men, Elmer Stewart and John Webb, were being held Tuesday on open charges, pending the outcome of Thornton's injuries, after blocking the highway for a drag race, Sheriff Carlus Gay said.

3-War Vet Held

Thomas William Hurst, 75, who claims to have fought in the Russo-Japanese War, the Boer War and World War 1, was jailed in Savannah Tuesday by federal authorities. FBI agents reported he is being held on charges of passing bad checks . . . Thad Thomas Walker of Columbus, Ark., is the new academic dean at Brewton-Parker College . . . Georgia's developing livestock and poultry industry may get a worthwhile boost from a change in wheat acreage allotment regulations, John F. Bradley, administrative officer for the stabilization and conservation program, said Tuesday. Legislation recently enacted will permit farmers growing less than 30 acres of wheat to grow an additional 30 acres for exclusive use on the farm in 1958

Jones Gets Seat On TVA Board

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 10 — Arnold R. Jones was given a recess appointment to the Tennessee Valley Authority board of directors today. He was nominated for the post before the Senate delayed action.

The recess appointment by President Eisenhower will be subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January. Jones came under Democratic fire because he had been a deputy director of the Budget Bureau, which senators from the TVA area regard as hostile to the authority's continuing expansion and operation.

Savannah Boy Bitten by Snake In Classroom

SAVANNAH, Sept. 10 (AP)—A high school student was bitten by a copperhead moccasin today in biology class.

John Wallace, 15, was bitten on the thumb by the five-inch baby reptile as boys in the class were trying to get it back into a jar. The boy was taken to a hospital, where the family doctor said tonight his condition was fair.

John said the snake had been brought to school by another student to get the teacher to settle an argument about whether the copperhead was a true moccasin.

Young Arsonist

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Sept. 10 (UP)—A 14-year-old boy was arraigned today on a charge of arson. The boy, who was not identified, was accused of marking the opening of the new term by trying to burn the schoolhouse.

Pecan and Tobacco Crops Decline

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 10—Georgia's pecan crop this year will be 72 per cent smaller than last year's harvest, the Georgia Crop Reporting Service predicted Tuesday.

The services also noted that Georgia's flue-cured tobacco crop was 36 per cent smaller and that peanut and milk production also are below last year's level.

However, Georgia's hens have something to cackle about. They set an egg production record last month, laying a total of 108 million eggs. This was 12 per cent higher than last year's August record of 96 million eggs.

The Crop Reporting Service said Georgia will turn out a near-record corn crop this year. The state's corn crop is currently estimated at 65,750,000 bushels, second largest crop on record. The largest was a 1955 yield of 67,080,000 bushels.

Hot dry weather forced the pecan prospects down, the reporting service said. Pecan production was expected on Aug. 1 to hit 20,000,000 pounds.

But high temperatures and low rainfall pushed that total down to 17,000,000 pounds. Last year's harvest was 60,000,000 pounds.

The state's flue-cured tobacco crop, estimated at 81,900,000 pounds as of Sept. 1, was 36 per cent smaller than last year's crop of 128,040,000 pounds and the smallest since 1943.

Unfavorable weather and soil bank acreage reduction kept the tobacco yield down. Growers reported an average yield of 1,300 pounds an acre this year which will be the third highest per-acre output in history.

The Georgia peanut crop, currently estimated at 540,175,000 pounds is about 5 per cent smaller than last year's crop of 568,980,000 pounds, the reporting service said.

Prospects point to a per-acre peanut yield of 1,025 pounds an acre, third highest on record.

Milk production, based on last month's farm reports, is estimated at 100 million pounds, a drop of 2 million pounds from August 1956 production. The Crop Service attributed the decline to a decrease in cattle.

Tunisia Protests French Moves

TUNIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The government today protested an alleged new violation of sovereignty by French troops coming from Algeria.

The Tunisians claimed 10 French armored vehicles crossed the frontier in the Kasserine districts carried out illegal searches on Tunisian territory and returned to Algeria with four Tunisian civilians.

The Tunisians yesterday declared a state of emergency in five provinces bordering on Algeria because of repeated French raids.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID'S great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAID'S stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Druggist Aids Stranger and Is Held Up

An Atlanta druggist Tuesday was robbed by a bandit who had requested that the store be reopened so that a prescription could be filled, police said.

Robert F. Free, operator of a drug store at 350 Capitol Ave., SE, said he had closed for the day when a slight man in a sports shirt and slacks asked him if he would reopen the store to fill a prescription.

Free said he would. He said the man shoved something, believed to be a gun, against his side and demanded his money. He added the bandit got approximately $15 and personal papers contained in the wallet.

Indict Salesman in Death Of Date, Fulton Is Asked

A Fulton County coroner's jury Tuesday recommended that a 27-year-old kitchenware salesman be held for grand jury action on a manslaughter charge in the death of his 23-year-old date last Saturday.

The coroner's jury also recommended that the salesman, Garland Ray (Jack) Williams of 2194 Memorial Dr., SE, face a charge of assault with attempt to rape the dead woman's 26-year-old roommate.

The jury ruled Miss Mary E. Hall, 891 Vedado Way, NE, suffered a fatal skull fracture when she either "jumped or was pushed" from Williams' car on a gravel road leading from Bouldercrest drive to Constitution road in DeKalb County.

Miss Hall was admitted to St. Joseph Infirmary at 7 p.m. Friday and died at 2:40 a.m. Saturday.

Miss Hall's roommate told police Williams brought the injured woman to their apartment. The roommate said he then tried to assault her (the roommate), that she threatened to scream and Williams left, police related.

The first police report filed on the incident apparently was not made until Monday, three days after the woman went to the hospital and two days after her death.

Bug Squad Asking for More Men

Additional personnel and equipment are prime needs of the Metropolitan Lottery Squad, its directors said Tuesday.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the lottery squad board, and other members agreed to ask Fulton County commissioners to provide one additional employe each for Solicitor Paul Webb and Sheriff Ralph Grimes so personnel assigned to the squad commanded by Police Lt. W. M. Cox can be replaced. Both Webb and Grimes said they are shorthanded.

In addition, Cox urged that four additional men and one clerk be assigned to the squad and that two additional automobiles be made available. He said the additional personnel is needed to maintain the pressure on operators.

The directors praised Cox and his men. They also adopted a resolution lauding officials of nearby counties for cooperating in successful efforts to stamp out lottery operations in the metropolitan area.

John I. Kelley, Solicitor of the Criminal Court of Fulton County, praised the squad and stressed the importance of going after "probably less than a dozen bankers and operators."

Dog Bites Hand That Helps Him And Regrets It

Later, however, he did his canine best to atone for it.

John H. Haley, of 1062 Boulevard, NE, said he observed an auto occupied by two teen-agers strike a dog in the street at Ponce de Leon ave. and Boulevard, NE.

The teen-agers drove on, leaving the dog floundering helplessly in the street with traffic streaming past.

Haley went to help. He said as he attempted to pick up the dog it snapped him on the right hand.

Treated at Grady Hospital for the injury, Haley was advised to bring the dog on to police headquarters so that it could be placed under observation.

Haley walked in with the dog cradled in his arms. Officers said the dog had snapped at his rescuer only because he was injured and frightened.

He appeared happy enough until Haley handed him over and then it was plain that he didn't want to be separated from his benefactor.

Hester said the property, which covers 1,400 feet of oceanside, is believed to involve the largest deed to be recorded in Bay County in years. He said he and Jones hoped to have the first units of the motel completed next year.

HERE'S SOMETHING for every community to keep in mind when those new multi-billion dollar superhighways are in the planning stage—

Land next to a railroad is often ideally suited for industrial use. Put industries on it and you create new job opportunities and new sources of tax revenue for your community. Everybody benefits!

Under these conditions, this land is a valuable community asset. However, through oversight, this asset can be "killed off" completely and forever by putting a new highway too close to the railroad. For most industry must have easy, economical access to rail service and this is impossible with a highway in between.

The time to protect and preserve this community asset is when the highway is being planned. And it is easy to do. Wherever possible, simply leave an adequate strip of land for industrialization between the existing railroad and the proposed highway. This property immediately becomes doubly attractive to industry—for it then can offer modern rail service on one side and access to a modern highway on the other. You and your community will benefit.

Nationwide Talk by Ike On Youth Fitness Urged

WEST POINT, N.Y., Sept. 10—President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness decided today that the "physical erosion" of youth was serious enough to require a countrywide radio-television talk by the President.

Although Vice President Nixon, concluding the council's two-day conference, said the problem was "not approaching a crisis or disaster," the group will urge President Eisenhower to speak. The President's speech probably would inaugurate a "youth fitness week" that the conference also proposed.

Most delegates to the first annual conference of the council and of the President's Citizens Advisory Committee on the Fitness of American Youth seemed convinced that while the nation's young people were taller and heavier they lacked the stamina of preceding generations.

But the conference produced no blueprint to achieve youth fitness. It could not even provide President Eisenhower with a precise definition of fitness. It felt more research was needed to establish standards.

There was general agreement that the President's council should not set itself up as a separate federal agency with a budget from Congress. It will continue as a small group financed by modest contributions from the executive branch.

This year the departments of defense, interior, agriculture, labor and health, education and welfare gave $143,000 to the council.

Warned by Nixon not to expect additional funds, the council and advisory committee will necessarily rely on local and state governments to carry the load.

The conference proposed that each of the 48 governors summon conferences of mayors to discuss fitness programs.

It also recommended that pilot projects be initiated in various communities, but it offered no concrete suggestions.

Carrie Roaring on U.S.; Winds Ebb to 110 mph

MIAMI, Sept. 10 (AP)—Hurricane Carrie, its winds slackening to 110 miles an hour, rolled ominously westward toward the mainland today but forecasters said there was hope a low pressure line might swing the tempest away late today.

In an 11 p.m. EST advisory, the Miami Weather Bureau located the storm at latitude 21.0 north and longitude 53.0 west, or about 900 miles east-northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and 1,850 miles east-southeast of Miami.

The storm was moving at around 8 miles per hour and was expected to continue west - northwestward at about the same pace for the next 12 hours. Carrie's winds had dropped from 130 to 110 m.p.h. because of "the import of cooler air at upper levels," the Weather Bureau said, adding that this "will have to be verified later."

But Chief Forecaster Gordon Dunn at Miami's Hurricane Central said Carrie still could regain some of the 160 - mile - an - hour punch she packed yesterday.

There was also a slight change to a more west - northwestward direction.

"The next 24 hours will tell," Dunn said. "But if it crosses this low pressure trough and continues westward, we may be in trouble."

This tropical monster—the third of the year—has had its sights on Florida since it was found by a lonely ship last Friday moving on a west-northwest course at about nine miles an hour.

Castaway Refuses Rescue Without Chimp

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 10 (UP)—A castaway identified as an American was reported to have refused rescue from a South Sea island today because the ship that went to get him would not take his chimpanzee along.

The 8,380-ton United States line ship Pioneer Isle reported from the South Pacific that Robert Tomarchin, identified only as an adventurer from Florida (home town unavailable), was ready on the beach of lonely Henderson Island with his suitcase, swim fins, bow and arrow — and pet chimpanzee.

The ship's captain said he would take Tomarchin aboard, but not his chimp. Tomarchin refused to be rescued without the pet, the ship messaged.

The Pioneer Isle radioed from Henderson, 120 miles northeast of Pitcairn Island, that it steamed out to rescue Tomarchin after a passing vessel, the Corinthic, reported a man signalling for help.

Tomarchin told the Pioneer Isle's crew he had been sailing the South Seas in his yacht, the Flying Walrus, when he was cast away by bad weather on Henderson Island July 28. He said he wanted to go back to civilization, but not without the chimp.

The Pioneer Isle had brought two outrigger sailing canoes along from Pitcairn. The crew left the canoes to bring Tomarchin — and his chimp — off the island to civilization when the wind is right.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Former President Harry Truman played a practical joke on an old friend today while making an unexpected boat trip in New York harbor.

The friend, Stanley Woodward, former ambassador to China and State Department protocol officer, was thoroughly fooled and the grinning ex - President had the time of his life.

Truman, visiting his daughter and her family this week, started out today with a 40-block walk.

He ended up on the French Line pier, where he had planned to meet Woodward and his wife, coming in from Europe on the Ile de France.

But the ship was held up at quarantine by a case of chicken pox, and Truman learned that a public health officer was riding down to the ship on a Coast Guard cutter.

Truman invited himself along and even piloted the cutter for part of the trip.

While Truman was chatting wih Mr. and Mrs. Woodward aboard the big liner, a customs officer informed Woodward a wire had just been received that the former ambassador's passport was cancelled.

The startled Woodward began questioning the official, and Mrs. Woodward exclaimed to her husband: "If you don't do something about this, I will."

The former President had listened politely, but now offered to call anybody in Washington for you if that will help."

He said he'd even call Secretary of State Dulles except that "he wouldn't do anything for me."

Finally Truman and his fellow conspirator, the customs officer, gave it away that it was all a joke.

Woodward glared, then laughed. He said he was laughing over what went through his mind when told his passport had been cancelled.

"I remembered a reference I made to Dulles while introducing Dean Acheson (Dulles' predecessor) at a recent dinner," Woodward said, "and I wondered if that was the reason."

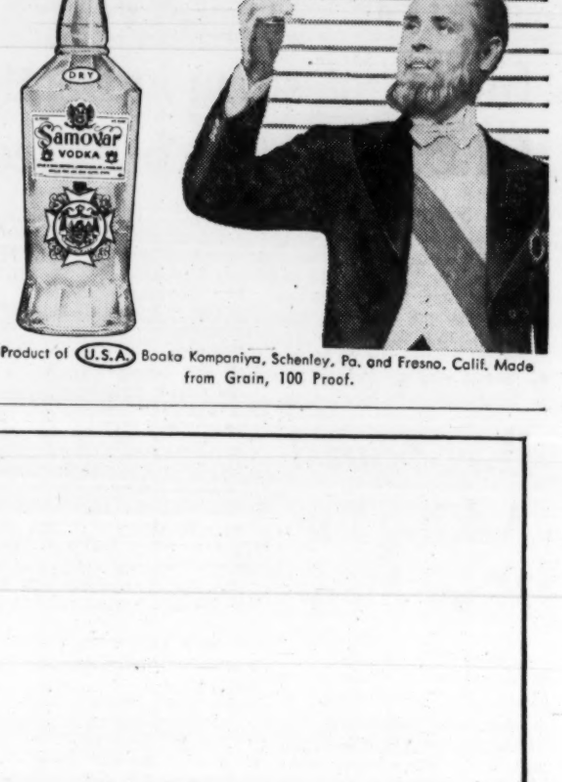

Faubus Explains His Case on TV Tomorrow

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 10. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus will present his side of the Little Rock integration dispute to the people of Arkansas tomorrow in an hour-long radio broadcast, it was announced today.

The program will be heard from 1:15 to 2:15 p.m. (EST). It will be available to the Columbia Broadcasting System's nationwide television network.

"It is important for everyone in Arkansas to understand the governor's position, and also important for the rest of the nation to understand the position of the majority of the people of Arkansas and the South on this vital matter," Faubus said.

The governor said he had reports that Arkansas' case had not been presented fairly by press coverage in some instances.

Bond Fixed in Police Assault Case

A man charged with attacking an Atlanta policeman Tuesday was ordered held under $500 bond for Fulton Criminal Court on charges of assault and battery.

Judge James Webb assessed the bond against James C. Jones, 45, of 741 Ponce de Leon Ct., NE.

Webb also assessed a $20 fine against Jones on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct and $15, suspended, on charges of resisting arrest.

Patrolman Leroy Somers, 23, was not able to be in court. Detectives O. W. Jordan and J. G. Adams said they found Somers, virtually unconscious, hanging onto Jones Monday night at a police call box on Peachtree street.

They said Somers arrested Jones and started to call for the patrol wagon when Jones choked him and kicked him in the abdomen.

9 Negro Policemen Added Here

Nine additional Negro patrolmen have been sworn in and assigned to active duty, Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said.

This brought the strength of new officers in Atlanta to 30, including 26 on patrol duty and four detectives.

Eight Negro patrolmen were placed on duty in 1948, Jenkins said, and others have been added as necessity arose.

The new recruits are Cleophas Sutton Jr., G. A. Logan, D. E. Brown, H. H. Harper, Robert Dulaney, H. G. Bailey Jr., J. O. Hull, J. H. Amos and Roland Lane.

2 Going on Trial Today on Charges Of Turning In a False Fire Alarm

Two employes of an ice cream company are scheduled for trial at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in Municipal Court on charges of turning in a false fire alarm.

The two, Claude D. Ballew, 20, of 634 Washington St., SW, and Howard E. Karr, 20, of 256 Eugenia St., were placed under $300 bonds each pending the hearing.

Fire Inspector R. L. Parker said the two were charged with turning in a false alarm early Tuesday at Box 818, Capitol avenue and Crumley street, SW. Parker said a witness pointed out a car in which the two were riding when firemen arrived and Asst. Fire Chief C. V. Stewart and Fireman J. W. Alexander chased down the car.

Firemen copied down the license number, but did not detain the two. Parker and Detectives T. V. Mullinax and M. J. Maloof said they arrested Ballew and Karr later at an ice cream company where they were employed.

Yearly Shots for Dogs Urged

Dog owners should beware of being misled by "so called lifetime rabies inoculations," the Georgia Veterinary Medical Assn. warned Tuesday.

Dr. L. A. Mosher of Atlanta, president of the GVMA, said a new vaccine, known as chick embryo vaccine, may give a dog immunity from rabies for a longer period of time than the older brain tissue vaccines but that the GMVA has not yet definitely determined how long its immunity will last.

Mosher said that dog owners should not rely on any inoculation as a lifetime immunity and that Georgia veterinarians, through the GVMA, had expressed disapproval of any action that suggests a vaccine having such immunity powers.

"The chick embryo vaccine will give immunity for at least one year but we are not sure just how long this immunity will last. We suggest that dog owners have their animals inoculated annually. The public can't afford to gamble with rabies," Mosher said.

Table and Chair Accessory Eases Seating Problem

By YOLANDE GWIN

James Brown of Chamblee is a very patient husband. But his patience finally ran out several months ago. He got tired of hearing his wife say:

"Honey, go in and get one of the dining room chairs and bring it in here (the living room), we'll be sititng on the floor soon!"

"I dragged so many chairs in that I decided I'd make one for the living room that we could use as a spare when we had too much company," he said the other day.

PRESTO!

The result is a table-chair, and very effective it is. Not only does it add a pretty touch to a room—any room as a matter of fact—but when there is a standing-room-only situation, presto! the table becomes a chair.

It is no sleight-of-hand trick. Mr. Brown said he had worked on the plan for months and now has perfected his model. At first sight the piece seems to be a smooth-top mahogany end table 22 inches high.

Slim legs had metal bases, although Mr. Brown said that rubber "boots" could be attached. It looks pretty offset with a lamp, a floral arrangement or a telephone.

But here comes the late guest. No more dragging a dining room chair to complete the seating arrangement.

"Nothing to it," said Mr. Brown. "Just slide the table top or lid back and the front panel drops down. The chair back, which has been flat on the seat, opens up and there you have a nice comfortable chair."

The table top is 24 inches square. When the seat is down it measures 18x20 inches. With an eye toward comfort, Mr. Brown has the chair seat and back upholstered in a beige and gold fabric. Beneath is a padding of two inches of felt and two inches of rubberized hair. A metal cable behind the chair provides the mechanical work for the easy sliding process.

COMFORT, CONVENIENCE

Mr. Brown is delighted with his handiwork and said he thinks that with so many small homes the double piece will add a great deal of comfort as well as convenience.

And how does Mrs. Brown like it? Here's what Mr. Brown said:

"Oh, we don't have one yet. I gave my first one to my best friend, D. R. Whitfield, for an anniversary present to his wife. I call it the Brownette."

Mr. Brown plans to build another one for his wife, to replace the one he gave away.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield have their present in the corner of their pretty living room in their modern home at 4469 Caldwell Rd. Mrs. Whitfield, the former Miss Wyolene Johnson of Atlanta, said when she first saw the present, which was adorned with a big bow of ribbon and an anniversary card, she thought it was a hi-fi set.

"I kept trying to open it, so you can imagine my surprise when I pulled at the front panel and it opened and the seat slid down!"

The Whitfields have been married for seven years and have three daughters, Debbie, who is 6, and the twins, Glenda and Blenda, who will be 3 in December.

Shouldn't Pay for Dates, Girls

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

My girl friend and I are both faithful readers of your column. Would you please give us your opinion on something? I am almost 16 and she is 14.

We both feel that it is unfair for a boy to pay for the evening's entertainment all the time.

We would like to know what you think of the boys treating on one date, the girls treating on the next, and so forth. When it is the girl's turn to pay she could give him the money before they go out so he wouldn't be embarrassed by others seeing her do it. Would this be irregular?

A girl should not pay the expenses of a date unless the couple have been dating regularly; even then she should not do it except on rare occasions. However, there are several things a girl can do to make it easier for the boy financially.

It is perfectly proper to invite a boy to a dance given by an all-girl group. Or, if a group party is arranged by the girls, they can invite the boys. If a girl is given a pair of tickets to some event she could invite her boy friend to go with her. But, if they go to a restaurant afterward the boy should pay the check.

A group of boys and girls I know go to a picnic park or beach occasionally where they cook their dinner and spend the evening. The girls furnish the food, the boys furnish transportation and soft drinks.

When a couple date regularly they do not always have to go some place where it will cost money. The girl can invite the boy to her home to study with her, watch TV, listen to records and perhaps try some new dance steps. But when a boy asks a girl for a date to go to the movies, a dance or game, etc., I think he should pay for the evening's expenses.

FLOWERY BRANCH, Sept. 10. A merry matron whose workday begins at 5 a.m. and lasts until long after dark is the champion homemaker of the 9th Congressional District.

Mrs. T. Dean Lott, high school teacher, wife and mother, will compete with other district winners in the state-wide contest to select Georgia's outstanding homemaker in conjunction with the Southeastern Fair Assn. and five of the state's largest women's organizations.

MIGHT BE BUSIEST

Nominated by the Flowery Branch Woman's Club, Mrs. Lott might well claim the title of the state's busiest homemaker:

Mrs. Lott's day begins at 5 a.m. when she gets up to prepare breakfast for her husband and teen-age daughter, Shirley. (The Lotts' other daughter, Virginia, is now Mrs. Curtis Clark and lives only a short distance from her parents.)

Mrs. T. Dean Lott

She has a garden, chickens and a cow. The homemaker adds to the family food supply by freezing, canning and preserving food produced on the farm.

"Fortunately," she said, "we raise most of our good food. Naturally, we have to buy a few necessities, but nearly all our food comes from the farm."

Mrs. Lott seldom misses attending church on Sunday morning and night with her family. She has served as Ninth District chairman of Farm Bureau Women, secretary and treasurer of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and is a member of the North Georgia Garden Club.

Mrs. Lott's friends find her "always cheerful—and always busy."

Although her job as a teacher keeps her away from home during the day, she feels it is justified.

"I love working with young people," she explained. "And our youth is so important! If there is any way I can help them during the years they need adult guidance, I'm well repaid by having the opportunity to do so."

One in a Series

As soon as the breakfast dishes are washed, Mrs. Lott begins to prepare as much of her family's noon meal as possible before she leaves for the 12-mile drive to South Hall High School where she is a commercial art teacher. After hours in the classroom, she returns home to prepare the evening meal in addition to the endless household chores she performs to maintain her smooth-run home.

FAMILY FARM

In addition to teaching school to increase the family income, the teacher-homemaker is active in operating the family farm. She encouraged both daughters to sell products from the farm to earn their own money for college.

Despite the many hours she must spend in the classroom, she always finds time for any home improvement projects that come to her attention. Mrs. Lott makes new curtains and drapes for her home, refinishes furniture, and she's even redecorated the family homestead by painting it herself.

Feathery Hats Smart for Fall

The top American hat designers have come up with something really new in feather hats. Actually it's a new technique as well as new design. They have used the small fine feathers as hackle, pheasant, guinea hen and duck, attached in some new way to supple fabrics so that they may be used in the same way as velvet or satin, even softly draped.

Woman Ph.D.'s Eyes Light Up When She Talks of Illumination

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

Dr. Domina E. Spencer's brown eyes light up when she talks about illumination.

The tall, olive-skinned college professor is a pioneer and consultant in the field of illuminating engineering. Domina (Latin for "lady") Spencer teaches at the University of Connecticut.

This strict vegetarian who has never tasted meat, she says, holds three degrees from MIT, including a Ph.D. which she got in 1942.

NEW PROJECT

For the past 10 years she has collaborated with another illuminating engineer named Moon—Prof. Parry Moon—at MIT in the development of illumination that is easy on the eyes and interesting to have around.

Dr. Spencer, a native of Pennsylvania who now lives in Cambridge, Mass., and he have written a textbook and 200 technical papers based on the research they have done together.

She is in Atlanta to present two papers before the National Technical Conference of the Illuminating Engineering Society. One thousand electrical engineers and members of related building professions from the United States, Canada and England are attending the four-day meeting.

LIGHTS CEILINGS

Proper lighting in a home has been one of Dr. Spencer's concerns. In her eyes, the whole ceiling should light up, for Dr. Spencer is a proponent and designer of the luminous ceiling . . . an arrangement of lights covered by plastic to diffuse the light over the entire room.

A switching arrangement controls five stages of light intensity, all the way from soft and low to bright. The lights are incandescent, like ordinary light bulbs, rather than fluorescent, because Dr. Spencer likes their soft color and psychological effect of warmth and security. And besides, she said with a smile, they accent the blondness of her sister's hair.

LIKE FIRELIGHT

At low intensity, the room seems to be lit by firelight, as the intensity graduates, the mood changes to twilight, then a cloudy day, then bright sunlight.

There's a brighter effect in the kitchen, but in the dining room there's a candelabra with imitation candles.

Dr. Spencer frowned a little about this old-fashioned lighting fixture—she believes that luminous ceilings are destined to replace all forms of lamps in a home—but her sister wanted it. And then she smiled, deciding that the candelabra made a nice contrast.

ANOTHER PH.D.

Dr. Spencer's sister, Vivien Eberle Spencer, has a Ph.D. in mathematics. Dr. Spencer has wanted to be a professor since she was 4 years old, and her sister steered her into mathematics by convincing her that "it's the easiest subject under the sun." Dr. Spencer veered into her present field when she studied under Dr. Moon.

A Quaker by religious preference, Dr. Spencer used to organize and sail in women's championship regattas at school. She's now absorbed with music, playing chamber music on the flute, violin or piano. The vegetarianism came from her mother, and Dr. Spencer explained that she believes "the principles of Christianity apply to animals as well as people."

As for her own dwelling, Dr. Spencer has lighting which is the predecessor of the luminous ceiling—hanging indirect fixtures, supplemented with lamps. She'd like to install a ceiling of her own design, she said, but she doesn't own the place.

Another Dog?

When I approach the sewing machine to sew a more or less fine seam I need all the strength I can muster, as much peace and quiet as the household ever allows, and my full powers of concentration. I always feel like a tightrope walker opening up my umbrella and I find myself shouting words of warning to my young: "Look out everybody, I'm going to sew!"

Which is a good signal for them to assemble all their knotty little problems and gather 'round. I think it's because they've got you trapped at the sewing machine and for a little time at least you can't get up and walk out, taking your attention elsewhere.

So there I was involved with a ruffler and a crinoline petticoat, a formidable combination at best, and there she was wanting to talk about a new dog.

". . . and so we picked out this brown one and since he's going to be ours they let us name him. Don't you think DuPont's a cute name?"

"Umm," I said, hitting the ruffler with the screw driver. And then it hit me what she said. "We're NOT going to have another dog!" I said. "I don't care what his name is, we're not going through THAT again!"

"Oh, mother, think of Abel," she said. "He's getting along toward middle age. And he wants a little puppy! You know yourself, everybody wants children. And poor Abel . . . would you deprive him?"

"Yes!" I said. "I would. Abel's happy and good for many more years. And he doesn't want a puppy keeping him awake with its noises and putting its feet and its face in his bowl. Abel's getting too old to put up with a puppy. And so am I."

"Well!" she said, taking a new tack. "Are you willing to bring Abel up to be a spoiled, selfish Only Dog? You wouldn't bring up your own son by himself. You thought every little child needed a brother or a sister. Just look how selfish we'd be if we didn't have to share!"

"Nuts," I said yanking the material out of the jaws of the ruffler which is an infernal contraption at best. "I was younger then and I read a book. Now I know better. Only Children are happy, beautifully adjusted people who don't cause their parents a minute's trouble. Like me."

She made a strangled, chortling noise and fell back on her bed. I wrenched the ruffler off and rooted around in a box looking for the little book Muv gave me when she endowed me with attachments to make sewing easy—allegedly.

I heard her bed creak and I knew she was rallying new forces.

"Why don't you go get me a cup of coffee?" I suggested, to get her out of the way.

"Oh, I will!" she said obligingly. "I'll be glad to! Would you like a sandwich too?"

"No," I said warily. "No extra services. And NO NEW DOGS!"

She went off, smiling ingratiatingly, and when she came back she had the coffee in one of the best cups and hadn't sloshed a bit in the saucer.

"I've been thinking," she said, "about intellectual stimulation. Don't you hate to see Abel grow old without anybody to talk to, any companion to keep him thinking and exercising his brain? Now a little puppy, which I personally would housebreak, would give him the intellectual stimulation. . . ."

Somehow my finger got under the needle and I let out a yelp.

"Look what you've done!" I cried, sucking my bleeding finger and turning on her accusingly. "Just because the Leonards' dog Elsie, was so ill-advised as to have eight puppies. . . . you're crippling me for life!"

"I do not," she observed icily, "see the connection." And she walked haughtily from the room but I wasn't saved. Abel, who had been listening to the conversation, decided to get right under my feet and, of course, he sat down on the thing that makes the sewing machine go and three yards of ruffling were chewed up before I could move him.

HEAD 'NEEDLE DEPARTMENT'

Nagging Wives Spur Sales

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (UP) — A nagging wife is the boss' best helper in boosting company sales.

The little woman's way with a few (?) well-chosen words has earned her the title of "needle department" in the sales world. It has also earned her on occasion, a mink stole, car, movie camera, dishwasher or tour of the world.

When a company wants to boost sales, it offers gift premiums to the staff.

"Two-thirds of these premiums are aimed at the wife and family, rather than the salesman," said Gordon C. Bowen, board chairman of the Premium Advertising Assn. of America.

PREMIUM LITERATURE

"Companies send premium literature straight to the 'needle department' — the wife," said another spokesman at the association's annual conference. "She sees something she wants and she doesn't stop nagging till she gets it."

"A wife's nagging sends the poor salesman scurrying to top his quota faster than a pep talk from the boss," a representative said. "You'd be amazed at the pressure women can put on men to get out and sell."

The long-range incentive probably is to keep up with the Joneses, but the short-range incentive more likely is to "get something for nothing."

SPORTS CARS

That "something" ranges from $35 salad sets to custom-made luggage at $770 a piece, $735 movie projectors and $450 miniature sports cars for children. One company offered airplanes, another a gold-colored Cadillac.

Most-wanted premiums include steam irons, scales, furs, camera equipment, hi-fi sets, transitor radios, textile items and trips.

But the men don't think women are strictly gold-diggers — hubby's prestige counts with us, too.

"You can put an award premium on display and tell people how smart your husband is," said another ad man. "And what woman doesn't want to brag that her husband got something better than her neighbor's husband?"

Cherokee DAR To See Slides

Cherokee chapter DAR will meet Wednesday, Sept. 11, at 11 a.m. at the Atlanta Historical Society.

Dr. Ralph Cain, superintendent of the Tamassee DAR School in South Carolina, will show slides of the school's activities.

Mrs. Carter Prather, Mrs. William J. Barnett, Mrs. Earl McKenzie and Mrs. Charles Workman are hostesses for the occasion.

Friends Welcome Boardmans Back

It is good news to friends of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Boardman Jr. that they have returned to Atlanta for residence after making their home for the past four years in New Orleans. Mr. Boardman is Southern Bell Telephone Co.'s vice president in charge of Southern states operations.

He and Mrs. Boardman are at the Briarcliff Hotel until they can get possession of the house they have leased at 1022 Stovall Blvd. It is now occupied by the Robert G. Elliotts who are in the process of building a new home.

"The nice thing about it," said Mrs. Boardman, "is that it backs up to our former lot on Club drive, so we will be right back in the same neighborhood."

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT F. ADAMSON are back from a three-week Western trip on which they were accompanied by Mrs. Adamson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burnett of Thomaston. The foursome drove to Albuquerque, N.M., for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Burnett's granddaughter, Mrs. Thomas B. Lane, and Mr. Lane who have just moved into a new home. Mrs. Lane is the former Zanier Downs of Thomaston.

After a week there, the Adamsons went to Santa Fe for two weeks at El Goncho Lodge, leaving the Burnetts with the Lanes until their return.

MEMBERS OF A BRIDGE FOURSOME, Mrs. Peyton Harrison, Mrs. A. D. DuBose, Mrs. Ross Glover and Mrs. John Evins, left Monday for Highlands, N.C., to spend several days at Mrs. Evins' summer cottage and to catch up on their bridge.

MRS. ARTHUR TUFTS leaves tomorrow for Falls Church, Va., to visit her sister, Mrs. Louis J. Anderson, and to attend the marriage on Saturday afternoon of her namesake, Miss Jeanie Thigpen, daughter of the Roy Thigpens, to Charles Williams of Virginia.

Later Mrs. Tufts will visit her brother, Louie B. Wilcox, in Baltimore, her former home.

GERMAN CONSUL KARL H. SCHOENBACH and Mrs. Schoenbach have issued invitations for cocktails on Thursday, Sept. 19. The party will assemble 90 of their friends at their Rockingham drive home.

"It is our annual fall party," said Mrs. Schoenbach, "and if the weather cooperates, we plan to hold it in the garden."

MRS. MILDRED SEYDEL has arrived from Brussels, Belgium, and has opened her home, Townlands, on Spring street for a two-month visit.

MR. AND MRS. SPENCER BOYD JR. have arrived from Wichita, Kan., where the former was on duty for two years at McConnell Air Force Base, and are residing at the Darlington until Oct. 1 when they will move into the Hilltop Apartments.

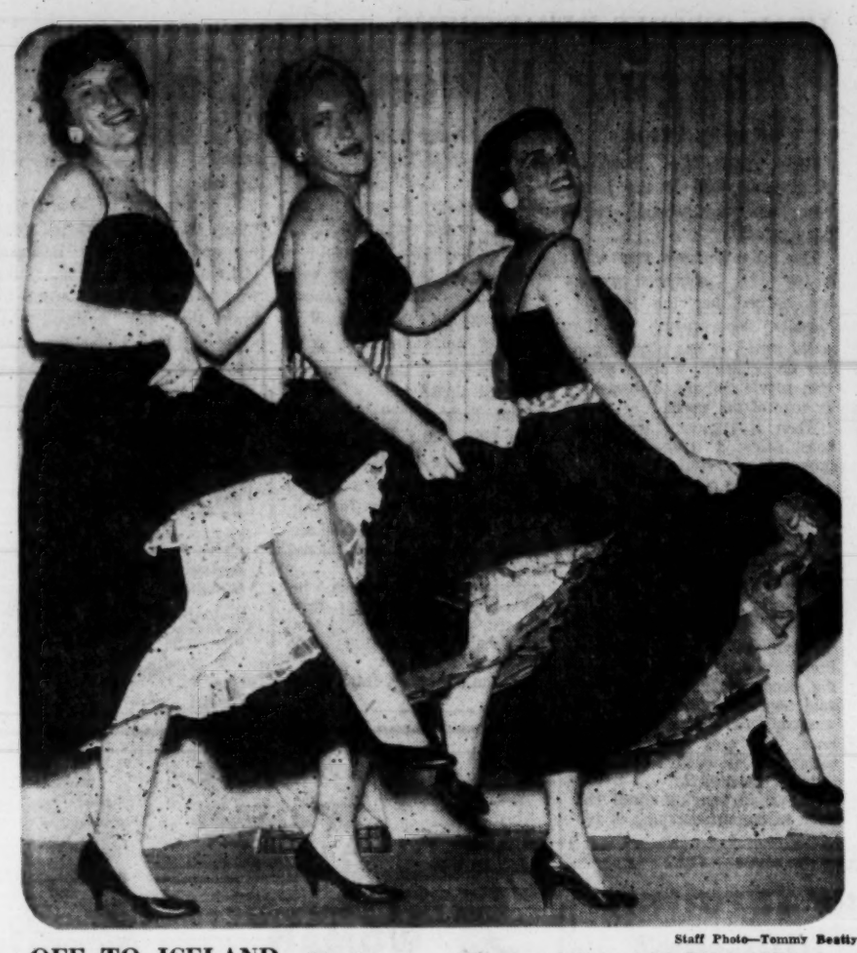

The couple was married in Wichita last November. Mrs. Boyd is the former Carol Coddington, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Coddington of McConnell AFB.

PRESIDENT S. WALTER MARTIN of Emory University and Mrs. Martin will keep open house for the freshman students from 8 to 10 o'clock this evening at their North Decatur road home.

Faculty members are also invited. Members of the Emory Woman's Club and the Women's Honor Organization will assist in entertaining.

MRS. MAY EVINS GILFILLAN, Mrs. C. Harvey Kersey and Miss Dollie Evins are back home again after their annual visit to Atlantic City where they spent the past two months at the Marlborough-Blenheim.

MRS. ROBERT S. TURK is the guest this week of Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Turk Jr. and Miss Beth Turk on Morningside drive. She will also visit Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Turk III in New Haven, Conn., before sailing Sept. 19 on the S.S. United States for Paris. She will join Capt. Turk, U.S. Army Medical Corps, who is assigned to the 196th Station Hospital in Paris.

Meeting, Picnic Are Planned By Rose Club

Two events have been planned for this week for members of the Rose Garden Club.

The first fall meeting takes place Wednesday, Sept. 11, at the home of Mrs. Harrison Hines of 2505 Rivers Rd., NW, with Mrs. Otis Barge, Mrs. Dixon Kirby and Mrs. Ralph Plaster as hostesses.

A feature of the meeting will be the talk by Mrs. E. A. Cronheim who will discuss specimens for spring flower shows. Mrs. Robert Bruce will speak on types of soil for fall planting.

On Saturday, Sept. 14, club members and their husbands will gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Addison at 3066 E. Pine Valley Rd., NW, for a picnic.

Hillside Board

The Woman's Board of Hillside Cottages will meet Thursday, Sept. 12, at 10:30 a.m. in McBurney Cottage.

Light Engineers Here Unveil Devices for Safer Traveling

Lighting devices to make travel safer and more enjoyable were unveiled at the Biltmore Hotel Tuesday night by the national Illuminating Engineering Society.

One such light, developed to resist shock, will be used underneath railroad yard tracks. It will afford better inspection of the underside of rolling stock than hand-held lights.

For jet planes there is a wing-tip lamp that will stand heat, chill and vibration.

For airports, a series of runway lights flashing at the rate of .0005 of a second and appearing as tracer bullets to guide pilots to runways.

Wednesday the society will demonstrate a "light that controls sound." Planes will fly in its beam until they are four or five miles out. The light is designed to shield nearby cities from the sound. Such a beacon will soon be put into operation at LaGuardia Field in New York, spokesmen said.

Two Atlanta men and two Georgia Tech students were among contest winners named Tuesday at the conference.

Georgia Tech students John Reece and William Y. McCachern took top honors in IES' nationwide Allied Arts contest with their design of a restaurant.

Murrah's winning entry was the lighting design for an entrance way of a home at 4488 LeConte Ave., NE. Howe's award was for the lighting of Tech's Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

U.S. Farm Yield May Be 3rd Largest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that gains in crop prospects during August promised to make 1957 production the third largest of record.

Production last year set a record.

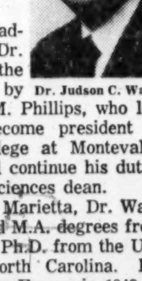

In its September crop report, the department said livestock feed crops are good over much of the nation outside of an eastern drought belt which widened during the month.

Crops with important August gains included cotton, sorghum grain, corn and soybeans. Advancing harvest also supports sizable relatively small increases in estimates for spring wheat, rice, hay, peanuts, tobacco, dry peas, sugar cane and sugar beets.

August setbacks were reported for flax, barley, oats, potatoes, fruits and vegetables.

A Million Dollars to Relieve Itch of Piles

It is estimated that over a million dollars a year is spent on varied remedies to relieve itch of Hemorroids. Yet druggists tell you that cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment soothes Hemorroids torture in minutes. 50c box or 75c tube applicator. Peterson's Ointment gives fast, joyful relief from itching. Be delighted or money back.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms or Round Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients go right to work — kill Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms or Round Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P-W or R-W . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son and their successors, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diam.	Double	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: king of diamonds.

South selected an unusual method of handling the trump suit in today's hand. His choice, while based on a legitimate possibility, was designed to allow for the fallibilities of human nature. He found his victim in West.

The bidding was normal. West led the two top diamonds and then shifted to the ten of clubs. Intent upon holding his losses in the trump suit to one trick, South led the jack. West, for reasons best known to himself, covered with the king and great was the fall thereon.

Declarer had but to give up a trick to the ten of hearts to fulfill his contract. West's cover of the jack is the type of indiscretion that players of some experience will sometimes commit out of the habit of covering an honor with an honor. Obviously the duck is correct. If East has the queen, he should be given a chance to make it. If South has the queen, West may wait and cover it when it is led.

One of the kibitzers criticized declarer's technique. He contended that a low heart to the ace would hold the losses to one trick whenever West held the singleton queen or the singleton king (two combinations), whereas the jack play succeeds only when East has the singleton ten (one combination).

Without extraneous information, the percentage play is to lead low to the ace. But in this instance the case of the singleton honor in the West hand may be disregarded because West was marked with at least the guarded king of hearts as part of his bid, and it is not too unlikely that he may have the king, queen and a small one. If the hearts should divide 2-2 both plays produce the same result, but if they are divided 3-1, it is a normal certainty that East will have the one, and unless that one is the ten, the contract is unmakable.

Bricklayer 'Paints' Pictures With Sand

MILTON, Wis. (AP) — Bricklayer Homer Hess uses sand to produce pictures, including such scenes as the white Washington Monument shaft surrounded at its base by pink cherry trees.

Hess colors the sand with ink and creates the scenes by sprinkling the sand on a tilted easel. He figures he pours a 100 pounds of sand into his projects during a year.

But he has one regret. He never has anything left. It takes just a brush of the hand to turn the pictures back into a sand pile.

KEEP WELL: Help Is Needed If Tensions Mount

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

The Garden of Eden, before the fall, held no fears or tensions. Since then, man has had to cope with stress and strain and the way he handles such problems determines his life situation.

Tension is good when it stimulates the desire to work not only to keep the wolf from the door but to obtain a feeling of achievement. But when tension causes conflicts that cannot be solved, adjustments are needed.

Some individuals are in a perpetual state of anxiety and discomfort; they face one crisis after another. Many are not as bad off as they appear to be—because by ordinary standards, their problems are minor.

These men and women never acquired the emotional equipment in childhood to help them overcome the every-day ups and downs of adulthood. They need to learn the habits and attitudes necessary for emotional security. If their work load seems unbearable they ought to plan to do the most urgent tasks first. What is left over can be tackled later.

These people should do the best they can without shirking and be satisfied with their production.

Help is needed whenever emotional upsets seem overwhelming. Confide in a level-headed friend, counselor, clergyman, or physician. Running away from trouble is not good policy but occasionally it is the thing to do. This interval provides an opportunity to regain balance and see the problem in its true light.

The emotionally mature individual has learned to give and take. He yields a little even though the other person might be wrong. It is wise to let off steam by working in the garden or cleaning out the garage or basement. This is better than retaliating via a phone call or nasty letter. It is surprising what a cooling off period will do to maintain the respect of others.

OUTLAR PREVIEWS THE SEC

Explosive Cannon May Fire LSU Grid Comeback

Jesse OUTLAR

★ Sports Editor ★

(This is the sixth in a series of previews on Southeastern Conference football teams.)

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 10—Early arriving freshmen were strolling around the campus, and the colony of football players was observing a lazy Sunday holiday. But there is no rest for the weary—and Paul Dietzel and his staff are weary of defeat—so the coaches were hard at work in their quarters beneath the 68,000-seat stadium.

Perfectionist Dietzel, who experienced an imperfect 3-7 season last year, is leaving no film unshown in an effort to improve the football rating on the bayou.

Outlar

Darkness was closing in but the projector was still grinding out pictures of last week's practice session. The attentive coaching staff couldn't have been in a more serious frame of mind had it been the week of the Tulane game.

First, he did a flashback to the nightmarish '56 campaign, when the Bengals dropped their first six games before clawing three foes in the clutch.

"We did a lot of growing up down here last year," the personable Dietzel said. "You learn a lot under such conditions. It was the first time I've ever been associated with a chronic loser, and I hope it never happens again.

"This season our squad is green. About 40 of the 60 players are sophomores, but the name of our best player is spirit. This squad believes in me, and I believe in it."

The unbeaten freshman squad now reinforcing the varsity is laden with talent, and at least three members will debut as Bengal regulars.

Around the campus last year, disgruntled alumni insisted that the frosh could beat the varsity. But Dietzel dispelled that theory in the spring game, when he pitted the frosh against lettermen. The much-discussed duel drew some 20,000 fans, and the varsity won a 21-12 verdict. The outcome proved Dietzel wasn't inheriting a group of supermen, as some believed.

THESE TWO HALFBACKS ARE COUNTED ON BY PAUL DIETZEL TO BE THE CLAWS IN TIGERPAWS

—Dietzel Calls Taylor SEC's Top Fullback

The most talked-about star of the fabled soph cast is Billy Cannon, 196-pound prep all-everything at Baton Rouge's Istrouma High. The downtown quarterbacks already have reserved an All-American jersey for Cannon, and he may eventually wear it. At the moment, however, Cannon has to make the LSU first team.

"Cannon is a fine prospect," Dietzel said. "With a ball under his arm, he's one of the best. But there's a lot more to playing football than carrying the ball, and Cannon has lots to learn. Right now he's running behind Don Purvis, a 160-pound sophomore who is a ringer for Jimmy Thompson of Georgia Tech."

"The best back in our backfield," Dietzel continued, "is Jimmy Taylor, who, in my opinion, is the best fullback in the Southeastern Conference. Taylor led the conference in scoring last year, and he likes to play this game. He's a terrific football player.

"We feel that Win Turner will do an adequate job for us at quarterback. He was injured last year, and he has looked real good so far. M. C. Reynolds, who took over last year, is back. Then, we have sophomores Warren Rabb and Durel Matherne.

"Red Brodnax, our regular right halfback last year, is back, and he's tough as they come. Then, there's Johnny Robinson, son of our tennis coach. He's a sophomore who looks like a real comer.

"Max Fugler, a prep All-American center in high school, has been impressive at fullback. He's a 195-pounder, who'll play behind Taylor. That is, if I can afford to leave him in the backfield."

If Cannon fulfills his vast potential, the Bengals could have a great backfield, and they appear a cinch to be improved in that department. What about the line?

"Only five of our first 14 linemen returned," Dietzel answered, "and only Red Hendrix, our 187-pound left end, was a starter at the beginning of the '56 season.

"Ed Cassidy should be an outstanding guard, and Al Aucoin is our top tackle. Bill Smith, who made the all-SEC team as a sophomore missed all of last season with injuries. He has the ability to become a real fine end. Larry Kahlden, a junior, will start at left guard. He'll have help from Jerry Schwalb and Emile Fournet.

—Even Tiger Mike Is a Sophomore

"Lynn Leblanc, a 197-pounder, will be the starting sophomore at left tackle, where junior Ray Spence is our only experienced man. Sophomores Scotty McClain and George Fisher are reserves behind Hendrix at left end. Sophomore Don Norwood is our No. 2 man at right end.

"So you can see we're relying very heavily on sophomores, but they're sophomores who want to play. As I said before, spirit is the best player on this team."

Flipping through Ace Higgins' nifty brochure while Dietzel talked, I uncovered another sophomore. Even Mike II, the real live Tiger mascot who appears at all games, is a second year man. He's a growing 275-pound youngster, who replaced the late Mike I last September.

That Dietzel should reserve rave notices for Cannon until the rookie does some varsity shooting is understandable, but veteran football observers on the bayou say the youngster has more potential than any back in this area since the immortal Steve Van Buren.

Slick Morton, former Mississippi State head coach, bluntly states that Cannon is the finest running back he has seen, and he's seen quite a few in his day. Morton observed Cannon from close range when he was coaching the Bogalusa High School team.

If Cannon comes through, the Tigers may fire a shot heard around the SEC. They're always tough at home, and six of this year's foes, including Georgia Tech, must visit Tiger Stadium.

"This squad is going to make lots of mistakes," Dietzel says, "but as long as they make 'em at full speed, I won't complain."

If the Bengals make 'em at full speed, Dietzel may not have much to complain about.

Alf Sams Stays Alive In Amateur

Other Georgians Are Eliminated

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 10 (AP)—An Arizona dude rancher who took up the game on a wager, a teetotalling whisky salesman from New Jersey and a 17-year-old collegian exploded major second round upsets today in the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

A steady 45-year-old opponent and his own inability to stay on the fairways knocked Walker Cup player Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., out of the championships and only one of three Georgians came safely through the second round at the Country Club.

Blum, who though his game had improved a bit after playing only in the Walker Cup foursomes, weakened on the back nine of the long par 35-37—72 Country Club course and was beaten by James W. Paul of Daytona Beach, Fla., 2-up.

Lester Kelly of Decatur, Ga., was edged out by Claude Wright of Englewood, Colo., on the 20th hole and Alfred Sams of Macon beat Mark McCormack of Lima, Ohio, 3 and 2.

Ward Wettlaufer, a chubby collegian from Williamsville, N.Y., sank a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole and then outscrambled Billy Joe Patton for an upset extra-hole victory.

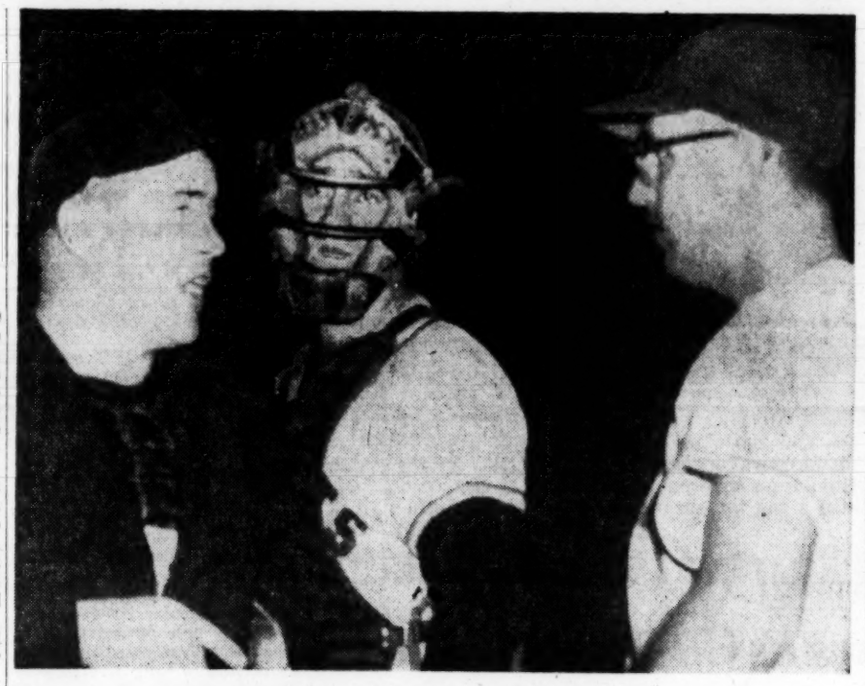

The "grand old man" of amateur golf, 67-year-old Charles (Chick) Evans, is still winning. The white-haired Chicagoan, who won the first of his two titles 41 years ago, beat Lloyd Pitzer of Waukegan, Ill., 4 and 2. It was his 56th triumph in this tournament over a 45-year period.

The day's biggest excitement was provided by Frank Bostock, a five-foot-five all-around athlete from Phoenix, who used a weird croquet putting stroke in eliminating Ted Bishop of Weston, Mass., the 1946 National Amateur champion, 2 up.

When the curious began helving into Bostock's background, they found an intriguing story in the Frank Merriwell tradition—football player, track man, tennis star, diver. He took golf when a friend bet him he couldn't break 80 in eight months. It took him six.

Blum said afterward his trouble

Lookout Catcher Just Listens as Carl Ermer, Ump Bob Burns Discuss Situation

Morgan's Clutch HR Drops Lookouts, 7-6

Crackers Rally In Fifteenth

By AL THOMY

Joe Morgan, Atlanta's most valuable player who speaks softly but carries a big stick, slammed a spectacular three-run homer with two out in the 15th inning to give the Crackers a thrilling, 7-6 decision over Chattanooga Tuesday night at Ponce de Leon Park.

Joe Morgan

Earlier in the game, first of a four - of - seven playoff in the Southern Assn. post - season semifinals, Morgan The Mighty had put the Crackers ahead, 3-2, with his first smash over right.

Some 2,506 of the Cracker faithful who braved threatening skies watched the most exciting game of the year at Poncey . . . and, it might be added, the longest game.

They saw Jerry Nelson and Jim Heise start the game for the Crackers and Looks, respectively, but fail to stay around for the finish. They saw Harmon Killebrew's single tie the count, 4-4, in the top of the ninth, and they hooted and jeered when Mickey Grasso, he of the troubles compounded on troubles in Atlanta, committed a run-producing error in the 11th to enable the Atlantans to lock the score, 4-4, again after Bob Allison's third homer of the year had given relief pitcher Hal Griggs a working margin in the top of the inning.

But, most important of all, they watched Mr. Morgan, the clutch player extraordinary, pull a certain victory out of the grasp of Griggs with a Frank Merriwell-type finish.

The bottom of the 15th started smoothly enough for Griggs, who himself had put the Chattanoogans ahead, 6-4, in the top of the round with a two-run single to center after three straight hits off Paul Cave.

Buck Riddle lined to left, and Chick King, hitting for Cave, went down swinging. No one got excited when Frank DiPrima, who had four of the Cracker hits, drew a walk, and only a ripple of noise ran through the crowd when Ev Joyner followed with a single to right. Three runs where too much to ask for, and especially with two gone.

Manager Cal Ermer decided it was time to talk to Griggs, a native Atlantan who won 21 games during the season and had a 4-1 record against Atlanta. He did, and Griggs remained to pitch to Morgan, whom he had fanned in the 13th with two runners on base.

Cave, who worked four hitless rounds after relieving Bob Hartman in the 12th, only to run into the two-run 15th, was the winner. Griggs, ace of the Look staff, was the third Chattanooga pitcher, and the loser. He survived several rocky rounds before being kayoed at the bell.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Atlanta tables the official Thursday morning sunrise at 6:19, thus giving hunters their first legal shot at 5:49 a.m. The official sunrise varies no more than four minutes over the entire state.

Hunters are promised ideal weather. Partly cloudy, warm and humid with chance of scattered thundershowers is the outlook for Thursday and Friday over most of Georgia.

Flu Epidemic Forces Florida To Cancel Game With UCLA

65 Gators Hit By the Disease

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP)—The Sept. 20 football game between the University of Florida and the University of California at Los Angeles has been canceled because of an influenza epidemic among the Florida players. The game was scheduled for Los Angeles.

Bob Woodruff, Florida head coach and athletic director, said he and UCLA Athletic Director Wilbur Jones are considering rescheduling the game at the end of the season.

The decision to cancel came as a result of medical advice that many Florida players will not be able to play. Some 65 freshmen and varsity players on the Florida team have come down with the disease since the squad assembled Aug. 30.

Eight have been admitted to the infirmary as late as Sunday and four more yesterday.

Woodruff said he and the team physician, W. W. McChesney, met with President J. Wayne Reitz of the university and the faculty chairman of athletics, Phil Constans, about the problem and it was their unanimous opinion the game should be cancelled.

"We certainly are sorry to hear of this unfortunate situation at the University of Florida, and while it is a great disappointment to our squad, staff and fans, we realize the responsibility of the University of Florida in protecting the best interests of its football team above everything else," Johns said at Los Angeles.

Shoulder Troubles Stop Robison Again

Dodd Fears Tech Gridder May Be Lost for Season

By RALPH GREGORY

Dave Robison, shifted to fullback prior to Tuesday's drills, will probably be lost for the season because of a recurring shoulder injury.

Dave Robison

The 190-pound junior from Lebanon, Tenn., reinjured the shoulder during a practice session. It was the second time since practice began that the shoulder has become separated and an operation may be necessary before he is able to play again.

"Loss of Robison is one of the most costly injuries we've had this far," Coach Bobby Dodd said. "He would certainly have played somewhere for us because of his defensive ability."

Search for defensive strength prompted the shift of Robison Tuesday to his fourth position. He started as a quarterback, had been shifted to center and to guard. His linebacking ability was responsible for the shift to fullback, where defensive weaknesses have shown up.

"There's only a slight chance we'll be able to use him any more this year," Dodd said. "It may take an operation to straighten out the shoulder."

The injury leaves the fullback situation where it was before wholesale personnel shifts, designed to strengthen the two main problem spots, were made in a Monday night strategy session. Robison was moved from guard with guard Dan Theodocion shifting to tackle, the other weak spot, and Dan Smith moving from center to guard.

The Jackets have also lost reserve center Eddie Elward for the year. Elward, who has been bothered by a recurring back injury, will be held out this year in hope that he'll recover sufficiently to be able to play next season.

"We only have time for one other scrimmage after this," Dodd said. "We have to scrimmage Wednesday and again Saturday to see if any of our teaching is doing any good."

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 10 (AP)—Until the early '30s, football in this Blue Grass county, was a topic of conversation only when horse fans tired of rehashing the glory of Man O'War. Then along came fabled John Simms (Shipwreck) Kelly.

Cocky and gabby and sharp of wit, halfback Kelly became a football legend. He won legions of admirers because he backed up street corner boasts with game-time exploits for the University of Kentucky.

He gave Kentuckians something to talk about besides the thoroughbred.

Around the old University of Kentucky practice football field, which also doubled as the baseball diamond, was a patchwork fence dotted with commercial signs. One read: Kelly Tires. Legend has it that Kelly went to the garage which paid for the sign, borrowed some paint and in the dark of night revised the sign to read:

"Kelly Never Tires."

His sense of humor was never at a loss. Once he hired a Negro lad, dressed him with a tall stovepipe hat and had him chauffeur him around town in his jalopy.

Actually football in the Blue Grass country goes back to 1880—the date the first game was played in the South. In that game, a combination of rugby and soccer, Kentucky University (now Transylvania College) beat Centre College of Kentucky 13 to 0. This team had a 7-0 record.

Shipwreck Kelly

Bob Gain

Bear Bryant

Vito Parilli

Steve Meilinger

Then in 1946 Paul Bryant arrived to guide the UK Wildcats' destiny. Bryant, speaking with an Arkansas drawl, developed Kentucky's first great teams.

The Wildcats had been the SEC doormat. Bryant developed a powerhouse and in 1949, 1950 and 1951 the University of Kentucky played in successive years in the Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls.

Kentucky lost 21-13 to Santa Clara in the Orange; beat—with its only SEC championship team in 1950—formidable Oklahoma 13-7 in the Sugar (the last loss for the Sooners); and defeated Texas Christian 20-7 in the Cotton.

Some of the stars produced at Kentucky are quarterback Babe Parilli (now with the pro Green Bay Packers), tackle Bob Gain (Cleveland Browns), end Steve Meilinger (Washington Redskins), center Doug Moseley and guard Ray Correll. Seven other players were selected for All-Southeastern Conference choices: Wash Serini, Wah-Wah Jones, Jay Rhodemyre, Gene Donaldson, Bob Hardy, Ralph Kercheval and Bert Johnson.

In 1954, Bryant moved to Texas A&M and was succeeded by Blanton Collier, who had coached at nearby Paris, Ky., High School and had become top assistant to Paul Brown of the pro Cleveland Browns.

The Kentucky team is one of only three in the nation finishing above the .500 mark in each of the 11 postwar seasons.

The university and the community are growing. Kentucky is in the process of erecting a medical school and is noted for its School of Agriculture. Lexington, with an industrial boom, is nearly 60,000 population.

Cubs Shell Brooks On Banks' Homers

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ernie Banks hammered a pair of home runs, good for four runs to fuse a 13-hit Chicago Cub attack today that overwhelmed the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-2.

The Cubs scored in three-run clusters in the first, third and sixth innings while pounding four Dodger pitchers and backing rookie Dick Drott to a 14-11 season record. It was the righthander's second decision over Brooklyn against one defeat. He yielded seven hits and struck out four batters.

Bosox Drop Chisox Six Games Behind

Ninth-Inning Chicago Rally Squelched by Ike Delock, 7-4

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox wavered in the ninth inning tonight but defeated the White Sox, 7-4, dropping the second-place Chicagoans six games in back of the American League-leading New York Yankees, who were rained out.

Ike DeLock eventually quelled the uprising for Brewer's 16th triumph. He has lost 12.

Rain Halts Yanks With Tribe Ahead

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Rain delayed, interrupted and finally postponed tonight's game between the American League-leading New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians. A double-admission, day-night doubleheader was scheduled for tomorrow.

The Indians led 2-0 when the game, which started 17 minutes late because of rain, finally was called after a 45-minute interruption in the fourth inning.

Martinez Tests Baker

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP)—Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., will try to make New York's Larry Baker his 29th knockout victim in a 10-round welterweight scrap tomorrow night.

The colorful Martinez, fourth-ranking contender, is a 12-5 choice to defeat upset-minded Baker in the nationally televised and broadcast, ABC, 9 p.m., EST show at Chicago Stadium.

Martinez, who never has been knocked out himself, has won 56 out of 61 bouts and this year scored two impressive victories over former champion Kid Gavilan.

Harold Johnson Stops Bethea

NBC Signs Pact For Radio, TV Of Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Mid-Winter Sports Assn. announced today it has negotiated a five-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. for televising and radio broadcasting the annual Sugar Bowl football game.

The association, which sponsors the annual post-season game, said the contract begins with the Jan. 1, 1958, games.

No other details were announced.

Middleweight Title Goes on TV At Paramount

Theater officials report the fight will be filmed on an 18x24-foot screen directly from Yankee Stadium. No seats will be reserved, but tickets, of course, can be bought at the box office in advance.

It is the second closed circuit theater telecast. So far, 173 theaters in 129 cities have linked onto the circuit, and requests still are being received from other cities.

In 1955, 133 theaters in 93 cities carried the Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore heavyweight championship show on Sept. 21.

New Orleans Paper Says Pelicans Now for Sale

Directors Vote Local Buyers Top Priority; Yanks Undecided

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Times-Picayune said tonight directors of the New Orleans Pelicans have agreed to offer the team's Southern Assn. franchise for sale.

The newspaper said the agreement stipulated New Orleans interests would have top priority and that the club would be sold to another city only if there were no local buyers.

The Times-Picayune said the New York Yankees will decide whether to continue their working agreement with any new owners.

The directors voted to return the franchise to the league early in August, but decided against that after Mayor Delesseps Morrison, a member of the board, got a fund-raising campaign underway.

The directors hoped to raise $50,000. The first $25,000 deadline was met only after directors underwrote $9,800. There was never any report on the outcome of the second half of the drive.

The hard-pressed Pelicans, who frequently drew less than 1,000 per game, lost their home stadium after this season. The site of Pelican Stadium will be used for a motel. Efforts to secure another field have been unproductive.

Butts Glows as Canadian Hansen Bids for Starting Tackle Post

By DAN KITCHENS
Special to The Constitution

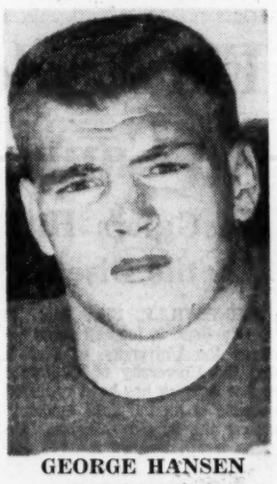

ATHENS, Sept. 10—Much has been said about the help Georgia looks to get from transfers this fall, in which names like Lloyd, Smith, Francis, Galbreath and Soberdash figure prominently.

Now there's a new one to be added—George Hansen. The likeable Canadian, a fine specimen at 6-2, 215 pounds, has the Bulldog coaching staff applauding his offensive antics.

Head coach Wallace Butts said Monday that Hansen's line and downfield blocking "is the best on the whole squad." And Butts is really counting on the ex-Sunflower Junior College All-American when the opening whistle blows the night of Sept. 21, the Bulldog opener against Texas.

To date, Hansen has shoved himself into contention with Riley Gunnels, the incumbent regular left tackle, who lettered as a sophomore last year. And with Hansen's excellent progress, Butts' concern about left tackle should be eased somewhat through 1958. Junior Bob Sedlock and sophomore Larry Lancaster are also in the scramble.

That opening game will be particularly significant for Hansen as his Southern sojourn is directly traceable to Darrell Royal, the new Texas head coach.

GEORGE HANSEN
A Rugged Canadian

While Royal was coaching at Edmonton, in the Canadian League, he convinced Hansen, a fullback at Northeast Canada High School in Calgary, Province of Alberta, to enroll at Sunflower J. C. in Mississippi; Royal had already accepted the head coaching job at Mississippi State, and wanted George, after his Sunflower stint, to don a Maroon uniform. But Royal's subsequent move to Univ. of Washington broke his contract, and George's football career became almost a parallel to that of teammate Bobby Galbreath, when Bulldog line coach Wyatt Posey signed him to come to Georgia.

SCRIMMAGE SCRAP — The Bulldogs worked in Stanford Stadium Tuesday night in a show for the Athens TD Club members and their families. . . . Heavy rains just before the scrimmage slowed down the offense in a two-hour workout that saw the Red team defeat the Whites, 26-19. . . . Statistically the leaders were sophomore quarterback Charley Britt, with 63 yards in 7 carries and three pass completions in five times for 43 yards. . . . Senior fullback Wilbur Lofton picked up 63 yards on 6 carries and junior right half Gene Littleton totaled 41 yards on 8 carries. . . . Sophomore right half Don Soberdash had 51 yards on 10 carries. . . . A somber note to the night was the injury of senior right half Jimmy Orr and senior fullback Joe Comfort. Both missed half of last season with knee injuries and are being counted on to carry the brunt of the Bulldog punting game this year. Trainer Sam Richwine said extent of the injuries could not be determined until Wednesday morning; however, it is noted both Orr and Comfort left the field under their own steam. . . . Sophomore quarterback Tommy Lewis looked impressive on defense and worked the Red team well on offense. He picked up 38 yards on 6 carries and completed two of three passes for 34 yards. . . . Junior quarterback Glen Nunley scrimmaged for the first time this fall and looked good at the helm of the White team, particularly on a 13-yard touchdown to junior right halfback Gene Littleton.

was too many drives just off the edge of the fairways. The rough near the fairways is thick and green because it got some water. Farther away it is dry and not resistant to shots.

"You have to be on them or way off," Blum said.

Leading 1-up at the turn, the Macon bedding manufacturer lost four of the next five holes. He got one back at the 17th and kept the match alive, but on the final hole he was in the rough again and took a bogey five.

Sams shot the front nine in 36, one over par, and led 1-up. He made it two with a par four at the 10th, but lost the 500-yard 12th when McCormack got a birdie four. Sams closed out the match by winning the 15th and 16th with pars.

Kelly and Wright each shot 74s for the full 18 holes and were all square. On the second extra hole, a 465-yard uphill affair, Kelly's second shot missed the green and Wright won with a par four.

Robert Beirne of Riverton, N.J., a whisky salesman who has lost 45 pounds in the last few months by eating only one meal a day and avoiding his own products, put the skids under Robert Sweeny. The dapper socialite from Palm Beach, Fla., who won the British Amateur in 1937 and was runnerup for this title in 1954, fell by a crushing 5 and 4 score.

Auburn Shifts Soph Rawson To Bolster Linebacking Corps

Defensive Play Causes Move

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 10—Sophomore Lamar Rawson is a quiet, considerate, conscientious sort of follow whom you'd never suspect of becoming violent in a football suit.

Run into him on the street, and you leave Rawson confident there goes a "good guy."

Run into him on a football field, and you may leave hunting a doctor and warning folks to "look out for that truck."

Rain Shortens Tiger Drills

It was against Alabama's freshmen, and speedy, little Marlin Dyess had a full head of steam for the Baby Tide. Then Rawson lowered the boom with a pick-up-the-pieces type tackle.

"That might have been the hardest lick I ever saw in a freshman game," Connally remembered with a smile.

"And he put a similar tackle on Tommy Lorino last spring," McGowen said. "He really drove him in the ground."

Primarily, however, Rawson was switched to lend added depth to right half, which has been weakened by the poor physical condition of letterman Billy Kitchens and sophomore whiz Bobby Lauder.

Illness has cost Kitchens 10 pounds, and Lauder is limping on a bad ankle. Bobby, too, is 10 pounds shy of his 165-pound playing weight.

PLAIN FACTS—Rain forced the Tigers indoors after a rugged block and tackle session was under way. "Man, I hated to quit," offensive line coach Shot Senn said. "We had our best knockin' of the season going." . . . George Egge, who requested No. 13, is having more luck at quarterback, Buck Bradberry reports. "He knocked around a year as a Red Shirt and he's gaining poise," Bradberry said. . . . After the way Lloyd Nix led the second-string over the first unit in Saturday's scrimmage, there's no wonder he's the top man at quarterback. His refusal to make mistakes is his chief football asset. He made only one error in 26 chances last spring and some thought that one was a bad throw.

Greenbaum Beats 80 ---But Just That Once

By Bert Prather

Leonard Greenbaum, whose young son Jerry is men's club champion at Standard Town and Country Club, was just about ready to issue a challenge to his talented young offspring following a best ever 77 last week at Standard.

Bert Prather

But Leonard, a normal high 80 shooter, thought he'd give himself another trial run to see if the new found touch was permanent.

"I couldn't wait to get back out to the club the next day," Leonard said. "But guess what happened? I had a 90. However, it sure was fun breaking 80 for the first time. I chipped in once and knocked in a couple of putts a mile long on that 77 round," Leonard concluded.

Jim Tubbs, who was in our hole-in-one spotlight a couple of weeks ago, was still kicking up his heels out at East Lake. His latest feat was breaking 80 for first time. Jim turned in a 79 there over the weekend.

It hasn't been made official yet, but Gene Stout will be the next professional at Augusta National Golf Club. Gene was the capable and popular young assistant to the resigned Ed Dudley there and knows the operation thoroughly.

Gene has a summer job at Linville, N.C., which works in perfectly with the Augusta National. The latter post requires his services from fall to May 15. Dudley coupled the summer Broadmoor Club (Colorado Springs, Colo.) post with his ANGC post.

CHIP SHOTS: George McChesney, who usually has to settle for a much higher score, stroked around Capital City CC the other day in 37-35—72. One stroke lower and he'd been a par shooter. . . . Piedmont pro Pete Cole has returned to his stand after a busman's holiday at the Cloister. Pete, Bob Nelson, Wilson Brooks and C. H. Phillips played golf every day at the beautiful Sea Island layout. Their wives limited their golf to putting a contest. . . . Lewis Sams deuced par four No. 2 at Capital City, which was quite some shot. . . . East Lake's senior tourney opens Sept. 15. . . . Julian Harrison, Bob Harlin and Alex Wilson III shared blind bogey honors at Peachtree GC.

When North Fulton's Bill Hall presides over the annual SEPGA dinner Sept. 19 at Birmingham Country Club, he'll have the pleasure of introducing a very distinguished member of the lodge. None other than Ben Hogan himself will attend the annual SEPGA gathering. Ed Rankin, GM of the Hogan Co., Plug Osborne, Joe Wolfe and possibly president Fred Bowman of Wilson will attend, too, according to Harold Sargent, who is soon to assume the helm of the National PGA. . . . The SEPGA tournament, also open to invited amateurs, is scheduled Sept. 19-22 at BCC. . . . There is a possibility that Athens' Crackerland tournament Saturday and Sunday may draw its best field ever. Probable entries are State Open and Amateur champ Tommy Aaron, Gainesville; Gene Dahlbender Jr. Lester Kelly, Jimmy Sutton, Jimmy Cleveland, Don Patterson, all of Atlanta; University of Georgia aces Cobby Ware, Jake Howard Jr., Davis Adams, Frank Eldridge, Earl Bowden and Hugh Royer Jr.

Kitty Cartlege and Jerry Grissom's 74 captured first in Griffin Golf Club's Scotch foursome Sunday. Carole Burdeshaw and Troy Smith finished as runner-up team, one stroke higher. Heavy rains failed to stop the youngsters. . . . Mrs. Tom Burdeshaw sends along glowing report on Pete Ferris' work as new Griffin GC greenkeeper. The former Georgia Tech football star, is also golf shop pro there. Henry Fleck, using a new grip prescribed by pro Billy Wilson, shook up his foes during a nine-hole session last weekend. Henry posted six pars and three birdies for a 33 on the Bobby Jones GC front side. . . . Tracy Clute was the hole-in-one contest winner at Jones. . . . Dick Mayer, Doug Ford and Dow Finsterwald are running one-two-three in the PGA "money derby" with $68,901, $50,525 and $33,779 credited to their tour accounts south Georgians are reminded not to miss the sixth annual Ramsey Pidcock one-day tournament at Moultrie's Sunset Country Club Sunday. Host pro George Berry is staging a pro-am Saturday as a warmup.

JESS LEVAN'S DIVE IS BETTER THAN JACK O'DONNELL'S SLIDE IN PONCEY'S MUD AND O'DEE IS OUT

Sammy Meeks beat out a chopper, and continued to third as Heise pitched wildly at first. Jack O'Donnell, pitcher-turned-outfielder, lashed the first of four hits to center to score Meeks, and he himself came home on Buck Riddle's sacrifice fly after a hit by Dick Phillips.

Bob Allison, almost the hero for the Looks, tied it up at 2-2 in the fifth when he walked, stole second and raced in on Killebrew's hit, only to have Morgan offset it with a mighty smash over right in the fifth.

In the ninth it was that man Allison again, scoring after he and Killebrew folded hits around an out and a Jess Levan single. It was 3-3, and Hartman came on to work respectable relief, except for Allison's 4-3 home run, a long drive over left in the 11th.

Enter Grasso's misfortune, and he's had it just about every game with the Crackers, what with fines, suspensions, ejections and missed tags on squeeze plays.

It came in the bottom of the 1th. Phillips chopped a ball into the dirt, and ran only when umpire Bob Burns signaled fair. Grasso chased him part of the way, then lobbed the ball over Levan's outstretched glove at first. Phillips scored when Diprima legged out a slow roller to third, this also with two out, and it was locked again, 4-4.

Ernie Oravetz, Grasso, Waldo Gonzalez strung together hits in the top of the 15th, and Griggs singled in two runs. Cave extricated himself when Allison, after failing to bunt with none out, bounced into a double play, and Tony Roig fanned.

Came the 15th. . . . and Morgan.

DiPrima, Morgan and O'Donnell had 12 of the Cracker 17 hits, four apiece. Killebrew and Grasso struck three each for the Looks.

In the second playoff game here Wednesday, the Crackers send lefty Ken MacKenzie, 14-6 for the season, against Don Minnick, 17-6 during regular play. Game time is 7:45.

CRACKER DIARY: Bill (Ace) Reynolds is now ready for action after sitting out a couple of games with a jammed finger, suffered in Chattanooga. . . . One of the peskiest batters the Crackers have faced this season is little Ernie Oravetz, Lookout centerfielder. In the final series at Chattanooga last week he went 8-for-18. . . . Second baseman Tony Roig was back in Look line-up after being out over a week with a bad cold.

WILL HE BE ALL-TIME MURPHY GREAT?

Morris Mitchell, 6-6 End, Well On His Way

Willbanks, Hoffer Keep Eagles Flying

Tackles Hudgins, Fitzpatrick, End Mitchell Anchor Line

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Murphy High has taken its football success in moderation since the December 1952 night when the Eagles swooped from behind to annihilate Albany's Indians, 13-7, for the state AA crown in Macon.

Coach Aruthur Armstrong's 1956 team swept to a creditable 6-4-0 won-lost-tied record, though. And while the 1957-type Eagle is learning to fly in early season, it may not look that good. But by November it could become a mighty bird of prey.

Truthfully, although mediocrity could set in for this single-wing Eagle, it is possessed of more speed than in the past, plenty of heft and several players who have potentiality for eventual greatness.

Among those who fit that category snugly include tailback Jimmy Wilbanks, tackle Gene Hudgins, blocking back Lemo Hoffer, tackle Randy Fitzpatrick and end Morris Mitchell, the 6-6, 202-pound junior who possibly could develop into an all-sports star on a par with Johnny Carson, the one-time Roosevelt great.

Wilbanks, 153-pound soph who was regular fullback as a freshman, will be the tailback—a fine passer, punter and runner. Hudgins, a 215-pounder and strong as an ox, is a certain defensive giant. Fitzpatrick, 197-pound soph, already is a blocker of remarkble proportions. Hoffer, a junior, makes the attack go with his blocking.

Mitchell will use his great height to advantage at end on offense, his considerable bulk at tackle on defense, his strong legs to kick-off, boot extra points and field goals out as far as the 25 or 30-yard line.

Mitchell and senior Freddie Chandler (151) will start at offensive end. Fitzpatrick and Ed Baugham (180) will lunge from tackle, Joe Durley (154) and Price (161) from guard.

Lightweight Bruce Madden, 148-pound junior, is at center.

Wilbanks and Hoffer will have wingback Denny Clements (146) and fullback Walter Counts (156) as lightweight backfield running mates. Larry Doster (137) leads defensive backs in know-how.

Phelps Shoots Down Dixson, 8 and 7, In First Round of City Tournament

Carol Thomas Ousts Mrs. Kenneth Lyons

By BERT PRATHER

Janice Phelps, medalist and favorite, defeated Mrs. Herman Dixson, 8 and 7, in an easy first rounder of the City Women's Amateur Golf tournament Tuesday at Capital City Country Club but was looking forward to no such cake walk Wednesday.

The twice City and once State women's golf queen was to clash with pretty Carol Thomas of the host club in what could be one of the most interesting matches of the tournament.

Beauty queen Carol, who has played in very few tournaments this year, shot the best golf of the first round in disposing newcomer Mrs. Kenneth Lyons, 7 and 5. Miss Thomas finished out the round to post a medal of 78, best recorded in the tourney thus far.

Janice, who has passed up most of the tournaments this year, will enter the match the logical favorite, but she knows full well that she will have to go all out against her Capital City teammate.

Other favorites came through without a casualty Tuesday with the exception of Mrs. Larry Martin. Mrs. Martin injured her back while playing the third hole and had to default to the very capable Druid Hills club champion Mrs. Donald MacArthur.

Joyce Denson Tops Mrs. Fred Bellinger

5 and 4, and will face Capital City's Mrs. Jim (Dot) Clay. Dot whipped Mrs. R. I. Gunnell, 3 and 1.

In the lower half, Mrs. Harold (Gladys) Denson, mother of Joyce, triumphed over Mrs. Sidney Smith, 2 and 1, to move into the quarter-final bracket opposite Mrs. MacArthur. Two pretty Capital City stars, Dodie Black and Mrs. Jack Fulwiler, are the other two survivors.

10:05 a.m.—Phelps vs. Thomas; 10:10—Clay vs. J. Denson; 10:15—H. Denson vs. MacArthur; 10:20—Black vs. Fulwiler.

Rockefeller Offers Aid To Keep Brooklyn From Moving to L.A.

From Press Dispatches

Rumors of Brooklyn moving to Los Angeles received a financial sock Tuesday when money man Nelson Rockefeller announced that he actively was seeking to keep the defending National League champions in Flatbush.

The Dodgers got still another boost when the city of New York learned that it legally could condemn property desired by Brooklyn, then sell it to the club for resale as the site for a stadium.

Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson wasn't surprised at news of Rockefeller's entry in the matter. Before the announcement, he told the Associated Press that Rockefeller is "the angel" who would purchase the site of a new Dodger stadium in Brooklyn.

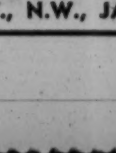

"If it is true that Rockefeller has entered the picture," Poulson said, "I'm afraid we (Los Angeles) don't have a chance. We want to make angels out of the Bums, but we can't fight Santa Claus (meaning Rockefeller). A city government has limitations, you know."

Color TV Is Ready For Brilliant Season

By PAUL JONES

This may be the year of color television.

The networks are certainly going after it teeth and tongs. Everything from pro football to My Friend Flicka will be turned into a colorama between now and April.

All spectaculars on NBC will be done in the flair fashion of pastel blues, pinks, shocking reds and sunburst yellows. Football teams have ordered new uniforms to contrast harmonious l y with the green of the gridiron floor. And New York fashion experts are working overtime to turn out new and beautiful garments for the stars of a dozen drama colorcasts.

Jones

The only thing that is keeping black and white TV from going out of style is the price of color sets which is still out of the dollar-down-dollar-a-week bracket. But, leading manufacturers of sets have promised to do something about that.

Color has licked most of its problems. The networks have worked out the kinks in colorcasting and set designers have come up with a product now that assures the televiewer of an opportunity to see life-like color at home. You don't necessarily have to have a degree from Georgia Tech to operate one of the things, any more, either.

After listening to a group of newsmen and TV officials rundown color TV, P. G. Walters, of the Radio Corporation of America — NBC-TV's parent company—invited them over to his house to see color TV under favorable conditions.

Walters' invitation was issued for the Arthur Murray Dance Party, one of the shows now regularly being colorcast. But, he prefaced it with this remark: "You really should have seen the Hit Parade Saturday night. It was magnificent in color.

• • •

THE DANCE PARTY has been regarded lightly by critics this season. But these critics apparently haven't been looking at the show in full color. We have never seen, even in the movies, anything like the splash of color, the sparkle of the pretty girls' faces, the swirling of the flaring skirts.

The flesh tones in the close-ups were so real that you felt the people were actually in the electronic box in person.

Until now, color has been a hit and miss proposition. Flesh tones used to look something like a mildewed lemon and any attempt at adjusting the color balance usually resulted in somehting that looked like a can of unmixed paint.

But, if what we saw is any indication, you can now turn on the set, take your customary easy chair and watch a colorama show without tinkering with the infernal box one tmie.

The Perry Como show, The George Gobel Show, the true story of "Eleven Against the Ice," the story of an Army-Navy trail party fighting its way through 644 miles of unexplored Antarctic territory; the Hit Parade, The Jerry Lewis Show, My Friend Flicka, college football games, the Standard Oil 75th anniversary party; the Eddie Fisher Show, the Texaco Star Theater, starring Ed Wynn; "Crescendo," starring a dozen top stars; Lux Video Theater and many others.

• • •

A READER who signs her letter "Claudia" writes: "In reply to Elizabeth M. Ford (Constitution, Sept. 9) she should not expect you to have the same opinion of all so-called comics, but I heartily agree with her about Ernie Kovacs. His behavior on What's My Line Sunday night was revolting. In order to hog the attention he is resorting to the pot too successful tactics of Milton Berle and Jerry Lewis. I am quite sure he had no intention of catching a train out of New York, but grabbed the chance to get the spotlight.

Ed Wynn

"Let us hope that he carries out his threat and has a one-way ticket. I am quite surprised that John Daly would permit the fiasco of Sunday night."

Comedians are finding things tough everywhere this season, aren't they?

Foreign Legion Series in New Billing

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—Assignment Foreign Legion has received a new assignment. The film series starring Merle Oberon, which had been scheduled for a Saturday night spot on a sustaining basis, was purchased by the P. Lorillard Co. and rescheduled for Tuesdays at 10:30 to 11 p.m.

The program will make its debut over the Columbia Broadcasting System network Oct. 1. Originally it was to be presented on Saturdays from 10:30 to 11 p.m. The network may fill the Saturday evening hour with a filmed mystery series.

Assignment Foreign Legion, produced in London by M. Smedley Aston and Anthony C. Bartlett, was shown previously on commercial television in England. Miss Oberon portrays a newspaper correspondent seeking stories about the Foreign Legion.

Although the new Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz film is officially titled the Lucy-Desi One Hour Show, its premiere will be an hour and a quarter. The two stars had protested editing or cutting the initial film on the ground it would harm the show's continuity.

The premiere of the comedy series will be televised by CBS Nov. 6 from 9 to 10:15 p.m. The United States Steel Hour, normally a one-hour program, will present a 45-minute drama that evening from 10:15 to 11 o'clock. Other films in the Lucy-Desi series are expected to be one hour long.

Radio's Telephone Hour, for which both CBS and NBC had been bidding, will resume its concert performances over the latter network on Oct. 7. Jose Iturbi, pianist, will be the soloist on that date. Telephone Hour will be broadcast each Monday from 9 to 9:30 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Bell Telephone System.

The origination point of the program will be switched from Carnegie Hall to a studio in the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center.

Anti-Newspaper Law Challenged in State Court

By the Associated Press

The newspaper libel law passed by the 1956 Legislature is not valid, an attorney for the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer Co. told the Georgia Supreme Court Tuesday.

Bentley H. Chappell argued that the act is unconstitutional in that it violates clauses of the U.S. and Georgia constitutions providing for due process, equal protection and uniform operation.

The law, introduced and engineered to passage by Gov. Marvin Griffin's administration leaders, provides that a corporation-owned newspaper may be sued for libel in any county in which it has 50 or more regular subscribers.

ATTACKS VALIDITY

The Ledger-Enquirer attacked validity of the law after it was sued by Al Grimes and Carlton Brown, both of Lumpkin. The two men asked $25,000 damages, maintaining they were libeled by a wrong headline over a story about them. The suit was filed under the new law, in Stewart County Superior Court instead of Muscogee County, home of the papers.

James H. Fort, attorney for the two men, told the court that "the real question presented in this case is whether the classification (50 regular subscribers) is unnatural, arbitrary and capricious and without some reasonable relation to its subject matter."

He cited the opinion of Wilkinson Superior Court Judge George S. Carpenter in the case of Joseph W. Boone vs. Macon Telegraph Publishing Co. and said it "contains an excellent and succinct discussion of all the legal points raised in our case."

DISMISSAL MOTION

In his opinion, Carpenter, who dismissed a defense motion on jurisdiction, stated: "The mere fact that legislation is based on a classification, and is made to certain persons and not to others, does not affect its valadity if it be so made that all persons subject to its terms are treated alike under like circumstances and conditions."

Fort also cited previous court opinions upholding classification of barbers in cities or towns of above 5,000 inhabitants, of mine owners employing 10 or more miners, and others.

Chappell agreed that the Legislature has broad powers of classification and that such powers are necessary. But, he said, the court has held that these powers are "not a license to classify as they want to."

JUST A FEW

He said the libel venue act was applicable only to a small group of newspapers. He pointed out that if an individual and two corporations printed papers in the same town and committed the same libel, the individual could not be sued in another county, a corporation-owned paper which had only news and sales would also be protected, but the corporation paper with regular subscribers could be sued in any county where it had 50 or more such subscribers.

Chief Justice W. H. Duckworth and Justice Lee Wyatt both questioned the reason for setting the cutoff point at 50. And Wyatt asked why the law applied to regular subscribers and not to newsstand sales. "You have 50 people getting the paper both ways," he said, adding, 'It's not reasonable."

Chappell also pointed out that under the law a person who believes he has been libeled can go to a county where he has friends, get them to subscribe to the paper and then bring suit. That action would be permitted under this law, he said, even though the libel was not made in that county.

A friend of the court brief was filed in support of the Ledger-Enquirer action by E. S. Sell Jr., attorney for the Macon Telegraph and News.

A similar brief was filed by Rep. Douglas Carlisle of Macon on behalf of the plaintiffs. Neither attorney spoke before the Supreme Court.

Grand Jury Plans Vote on Follow-Ups

The Fulton County grand jury still has made no decision on following up investigations as recommended by previous grand juries, Foreman R. W. Schilling said Tuesday.

He said he didn't think the jury would vote on the matter until next week. The grand jury undertook only routine matters Tuesday, he reported.

The July-August grand jury called upon the current grand jury to investigate "disturbing items of information, charges and rumors" about county prosecuting agencies.

They also asked successive grand juries to continue investigations into reports of police and public officials taking bribes and "Christmas gifts" from people who receive licenses from them, and a deeper look into the operations of lottery rings involving possible police bribery.

Allen Urges State Drive For Industry

Special to The Constitution

MARIETTA, Sept. 10 — Unannounced gubernatorial candidate Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta declared here Tuesday that state government should "take a full offensive in the critical transition from an agricultural to a balanced . . . economy" in Georgia.

Less than one per cent of the state's revenues go to the development of agriculture, industry and tourism, Allen told the Marietta Civitan Club.

Allen praised efforts by local communities to attract industry.

"Cobb County in particular has effected a spectacular change during the past 20 years," Allen said. "It has shown one of the greatest increases in cash income . . . of any county of its population in the state," he said.

Williams Tallies Big Results of Moonshine War

Georgia's anti-moonshine activities were considerably heavier in the first eight months of 1957 than in the same months of 1956, Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams' office announced Tuesday.

"More persons have been arrested, more stills destroyed, more vehicles confiscated and more illegal moonshine has gone down the drain," the report stated.

Statistics for the first eight months include 4,331 persons arrested on moonshine charges; 2,578 stills with a capacity of over one million gallons destroyed; more than 1.5 million gallons of mash and 60,000 gallons of moonshine poured out, and 571 vehicles confiscated.

Legislator Says Griffin Holds Reins

Georgia's Legislature has completely subordinated itself to the executive branch of the state government, a state legislator told Atlanta's Civitan Club Tuesday.

Edgar H. Wilson, Macon, professor of law at Mercer and a Bibb County legislator, said that the governor's control over finances has given him too much sway over the legislative branch.

"Why, the legislature can't even elect a doorkeeper without the governor's backing," Wilson said.

Wilson said that he was not criticizing Gov. Griffin for any use he has made of state money, but was critical of any governor having complete control of finances.

BROAD TERMS

Wilson criticized the contingency section of recent appropriations bills. He said that the terms of the section were too broad to do more than give the governor a vague idea as to where the legislature wants money spent.

Wilson recommended that voters should demand that the legislature perform its functions again, and not just at the whim of the governor.

Continuing his recommendations, he said that the power of the governor over surplus funds should be taken away—that the governor should have the power to cut appropriations when necessary, but not gain control over money so saved.

LIMITED FUND

Wilson said that the governor should have a limited contingency fund, but "not the whole state budget to control."

The legislator recommended that key legislators should serve on a budget bureau.

Wilson recommended that the whole contingency section be abolished and that the next legislature pass an appropriations bill that is realistic as to estimate of state income.

Atlantan Beaten By 2 Youths In a 'Mistake'

Arthur Hanson Jr., 27, of 644 Wells St., SW, said he was en route to work when two youths attacked him at Whitehall and Humphries streets, SW.

One was armed with a stick, Hanson said. The other used his fists.

Detectives M. W. Blackwell and M. A. Johnson said there was no mention of a robbery. They added Hanson told them the two evidently believed him to be someone else.

Six foresters from the U.S. Regional Forester's office here have gone to California to help in fighting the forest fires now raging in that state.

The foresters are John T. Koen, William E. Howell, Howard W. Burnett, Jack Fortin, Alvis Owen and Phil Archibald. All six flew to Los Angeles early in the week after rains came to tinder-dry north Georgia.

The foresters will be reassigned in Los Angeles to areas where the fires are burning. The assignment is temporary and the firefighters will be back after the California fires are put out.

City Challenged to Produce New Leaders

By JIM MONTGOMERY

A present-day Atlanta civic leader is challenging the city's younger business and professional men to muster from their ranks a "staggering" number of leaders to guide Atlanta through the next two decades.

Predicting unparalleled growth in this period that "may well be the most important in Atlanta's history," he declares it will demand "three times" today's civic leadership.

Banker Ed Smith has picked an appropriate time to throw down the gauntlet to those he says must begin to shoulder tomorrow's responsibilities — men in their 20s and 30s now in the midst of raising families, buying homes and establishing themselves in their chosen fields.

Jim Montgomery

"The summer of 1957," he recently told an Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce assemblage, "is midway between two highly significant dates—1940 and 1975."

He said the pre-World War II date "seems to have marked the beginning of modern Atlanta in a lot of ways.

"The impact of those 17 years on our town has been absolutely tremendous, and our town's accomplishments in that period have been really significant among American cities."

However, the First National Bank of Atlanta president asserted, "The next 17 years may well make the last 17 look like a depression."

These years should bring you "the greatest business opportunity . . . that any generation ever had," Smith went on, providing you "feel the civic responsibility to make a fine town out of Atlanta.

"Good business alone won't accomplish this."

Measures of the city's tremendous expansion from 1940 to 1957, with some projections to 1975, he gave in terms of:

POPULATION—The four-county area has grown from 518,000 to 897,000, producing a huge growth in economic activity. Now we must consider the staggering implications of adding at least half a million people—a city the size of Memphis—over the next 17 years.

AUTOMOBILES—The 105,000 motor vehicles of 17 years ago have grown to 283,000, and the next 17 will boost the total to over 600,000—"all potentially trying to use the same street system."

AVIATION—The old Atlanta Airport terminal handled 62 commercial flights a day, the present 10-year-old facility is jammed with 345 flights a day, and it's "anybody's guess" how the number will grow even before the new terminal (for which we voted $9 million in bonds to match federal funds) is completed. "We probably will be using one or two other completely new airports" by 1975.

TELEPHONES—Today's 324,000 is more than triple the 1940 number, and by 1975 will rise to 760,000.

CITES NEED
Edward D. Smith

from 6,000 employing 33,000 persons to more than 1,600 with 87,000 employes, and "multiplier" forces now at work to bring in new industries to support other industries may well boost the rate of increase annually over the next 17 years.

COMMERCIAL—Formerly confined to downtown area, is now spread into neighborhood shopping centers. Will probably have at least four regional shopping centers comparable to Lenox Square by 1975.

Comparable progress, and projected gains, were cited in regard to schools, hospitals, bank clearings, transportation facilities, churches, and charitable, cultural and recreational activities.

But perhaps the most astonishing future potentials were envisioned in:

HIGHWAYS — From relatively rare street improvements by 1940 to present expressway development to the next 17 years, when "Atlanta will feel the full impact of being one of only five cities that will have six of the new federal interregional highways entering it . . . at least one, and possibly two, circumferential roads around the area . . . and their role, however, speculative, in expanding to 18 or 20 counties the geographical area of 'our town.'"

GOVERNMENTAL—The plan of improvement has expanded Atlanta's city limits from 35 to 125 square miles, bringing more streamlined county and city government, metropolitan planning, comprehensive zoning and tax reappraisal.

"By 1975," Smith declared "we must solve the extremely difficult question of how 15 to 18 county governments and innumerable metropolitan governments can be welded into a representative governmental system for the metropolitan area."

All of which adds up to the need for three times as many civic leaders from the ranks of today's young men as were produced in the previous generation, he added, "because Atlanta will be three times as big and there will be three times as many problems and jobs to be done."

Smith noted that the Plan of Improvement, the new air terminal, the Buford Dam, hospitals, expressways, schools "and all the rest . . . didn't just happen.

"They were brought about by years of work and planning and political pressure" on the part of far-sighted civic leaders endowed with the "Atlanta spirit . . . a real devotion to this town, a sincere confidence in her future, and a real determination to help shape her into a city of really major proportions."

Smith's plea for new and more leaders—those who will carry on the responsibility of building up the governmental, charitable and cultural activities that "give the city its heart, its feeling and its conscience"—included this note of urgency:

"Bad as it might seem, the vast majority of people in this town, or in any other town, do not have the civic ambition to do anything for their town—or the concept of what to do even if they had the ambition and the energy.

"This job falls upon the few people who have both the ambition, energy and the know-how to put ideas to work."

Smith left no doubt that "Atlanta will need this sort of leadership to be sure she remains a place where people like to live and raise their children—and not become merely a sprawling group of industrial and commercial establishments."

Reserve Official Urges Patience If a Dip Comes

By BOB WILLIMON

The nation will be courting economic disaster unless Americans are willing to bear with any business slackening resulting from attempts at a more reasonable relationship between debt and productive capacity.

In an address before some 25 members of the Small Business Administration's regional advisory board, Dr. Rauber said:

"We should be thankful and not alarmed at some softening in business, as long as it is aimed at bringing production and debt into a more favorable relationship."

TIGHT MONEY

He warned that "fear or unwillingness" to bear with the government's tight money policies and curtailed spending could only add fuel to the "headlong rush of the American people to commit economic suicide.

"We are courting economic disaster if we fail to check (the increasing disparity between debt and productivity)," the official added.

Illustrating this disparity, Dr. Rauber noted a 74 per cent rise in the nation's total net debt between 1947 and 1956, compared to a 41 per cent increase in gross product. He noted that the purchasing power of the dollar dropped from 59 cents to 48 cents.

"This is a very ticklish thing the Federal Reserve is trying to do," the official said in reference to tight money. "The joker in the deck is that one man's debt is another man's income."

CITES DANGERS

Dr. Rauber termed attempts to unravel the inflationary spiral" a "dangerous thing." One danger, he said, is in possibly deflating too fast and creating a panic.

A second danger involves the yielding too readily to recession-based demands for easing credit restrictions and for more government spending. If these demands were granted unwisely, the inflation would be heightened, the official said.

Rich Sees Higher Pay And Output

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 10 (AP)—Fatter paychecks, stepped-up production and continued inflationary pressures were forecast today by Richard H. Rich, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn.

Addressing the Dayton Retail Merchants Assn., Rich declared: "There is nothing in the economic outlook that presages anything but continued high business activity and an even further expansion of the nation's economy."

Rich, who is also president of Rich's Inc., Atlanta, said soft spots on the nation's business scene indicate that "we are going through another period of rolling readjustments just as we have on several other occasions since the end of World War II. And, just as before, our economy will make these readjustments and push on to new highs.

"When we look at business as a whole and consider each element in its proper relationship to all others, we get a picture that shows continued inflationary pressures. We can expect production to increase for the rest of the year. We can expect consumer income to keep pace."

J. Gordon Dakins, the NRDGA's executive vice president and treasurer, reported that department and specialty stores expect to do at least three per cent more business in the last half of this year than they did in the like period of 1956.

U.S. Has Cause for Caution But Not Alarm, Says Survey

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—U.S. businessmen have plenty of reason for caution but little for alarm, the National Industrial Conference Board and Newsweek magazine said today in announcing results of a joint business survey.

No new super-boom is in store for the economy, they said, but business is still far from a bust.

The survey found that a sharp cutback in appropriations by major manufacturers for plant expansion, which left the second quarter total 29 per cent under a year ago, apparently rules out the possibility of another surging business boom this year.

"This is not a cause for basic pessimism," the survey said. "In fact, most businessmen are still optimistic, if somewhat more restrained than they were. There is plenty of money already on the books to sustain large expansion outlays for months to come. As new government estimates show, however, it's unlikely that it will supply the extra boost needed to create a superboom in the second half."

Plant Expansion Is Seen Slowing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — The long rise in the industrial expansion rate, which has helped support the three-year business boom, will flatten out this fall, an official survey indicated today.

Spending on new plants and equipment is estimated at a record rate of $37,200,000,000 this quarter, up $200 million from the second quarter. It will hold at that level in the last quarter of the year, the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission reported.

Over the full year total new investment will be $37 billion, the joint report estimated. This is higher than any previous year, 6 per cent above 1956 and 29 per cent above 1955.

Ward's To Open 8-State Office In Atlanta Soon

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 10—Montgomery Ward, the nation's sixth largest merchandising firm, will establish a new Southern territorial headquarters in Atlanta under a major reorganization of the firm's distribution system.

Announcing the new office, which will serve eight states and be established "as soon as offices and living quarters can be located," was James A. Best, newly appointed manager of the Southern district.

Best said that although Ward's is "committed to an aggressive expansion program, I cannot comment on the opening of any new stores in this (the Atlanta) area."

Corn and Bean Estimates Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Forecast increases in production of corn, spring wheat and soybeans over estimates of a month ago were contained in the U.S. Argiculture crop report today.

The soybean estimate, at 458,903,000 bushels, gained about 30 million over the August estimate; wheat was up to 923,263,000, and corn rose 128 million bushels at 3,194,674,000. Rye was unchanged at 26,440,000 and oats down 23 million bushels.

List Falls Close To Year's Low

Value of New York Stocks Drops Estimated $2.1 Billion

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—The stock market today fell to its lowest point on average since February as selling increased.

Prices dropped within hailing distance of the year's bottom reached on Lincoln's birthday. Turnover, though still sub-average, was the best in two weeks, emphasizing the lower trend.

LOWER TREND

Key stocks fell from fractions to 2 points or more and closed around the lows of the day. The market showed a lower trend at the start but recovered, displaying an irregular pattern as coppers and oils recovered part of their sharp losses of yesterday. These gains were shaved away gradually as the session wore on. Late in the day losses deepened as activity picked up.

The tight money problem was highlighted by the rise in commercial paper rates and in the U. S. Treasury's short-term borrowing costs. A greater than normal decline in employment for the season and continued worry about the Syrian situation were other factors.

Wall Street observers said that the market's technical behavior indicated that a test of the year's lows may be in the making. The increase in trading on the decline was an indication that the post-Labor Day wait-and-see psychology may be on the way out.

$2.1 BILLION DROP

Based on the drop in average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell an estimated $2,100,000,000.

On the American Stock Exchange prices declined. Volume rose to 800,000 shares from 750,000 yesterday. The losers included Dynamics Corp., Creole Petroleum, Pacific Petroleum, Imperial Oil and Mesabi Iron.

Staple Prices

Late Deals Firm Cotton

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures firmed in late dealings today as mill buying and short covering found offerings light. Final prices were 5 to 40 cents a bale higher.

The market temporarily eased slightly in initial dealings, with the selling credited to New Orleans, commission houses and hedging. However, there was no real pressure on the market and traders basically awaited fresh incentives, following the government September cotton crop report on Monday.

The situation in the cotton textile market was sluggish and dealers reported interest in spot cotton was mostly for near term shipment. Meanwhile, there was some spot house selling and other liquidation of nearby October contracts today, anticipating first notice day for October futures on Sept. 24.

A Houston spot firm today sold about 2,500 bales of nearby October futures on the scale up. The firm was also a buyer of about 1,500 bales of May and a small amount of March and July futures.

SMUGGLED WRITINGS FROM THE DEATH HOUSE

How did condemned kidnapper Caryl Chessman smuggle forbidden manuscripts from his cell in San Quentin's death row? How did a man under constant surveilance by trained security guards manage to write three complete novels...and have them published? In the current issue of Esquire Magazine, Caryl Chessman rips the veil of secrecy from one of the most baffling deceptions of all times. In his own words, Chessman tells how he defied every attempt of prison officials to keep his story from the American public. Don't miss.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Small selling of print cloths and other constructions continued in a limited way in the cotton textile market Tuesday. The higher government September cotton crop forecast issued on Monday appeared to have no affect on sentiment in the gray goods field. The popular 80-square print cloth sold unchanged at 17¾ cents a yard for average makes at the mill level, with resales selling ⅛ cent lower. Some mills reported a better movement of cloth from warehouses on orders previously booked, subject to shipping instructions by buyers. This was considered a constructive development.

In wool goods, mills operated mainly on previously placed orders for woolens and worsteds. Prices at the Newcastle wool sales were unchanged to firm, according to private Australian advices.

...but I'd never be without my ZENITH 'Diplomat' Slip-On Hearing Aid!"

"Why do I wear a Zenith, when I'm not really 'hard of hearing'? Simply because I want to catch every word of what's going on—without straining. I will never be without my Zenith 'Diplomat' Slip-On Hearing Aid."

These are the words of a leading businessman, and he adds: "I have several friends, including women, who are hard of hearing, and they're as enthusiastic about the 'Diplomat' as I am."

The predominant reason is that Zenith offers the best in quality and performance. Then too, the "Diplomat" is light, full-powered, small and INCONSPICUOUS. It fits snugly and comfortably entirely at-the-ear. No dangling cords, nothing in hair or clothing.

The "Diplomat" Slip-On Hearing Aid plugs instantly into a tiny, lightweight earmold so you can enjoy extra-clear hearing at any time.
